

Roosevelt Removes Hemispheric Limits for Defense of U. S.

'Imaginary Line Not Practical,' President Says

Wheeler Rebuked for Premature Statement on Iceland.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
WASHINGTON, July 8.—President Roosevelt, in effect, removed any hemispheric boundary on American defense operations in a press conference discussion today.

The chief executive said there were points in one ocean or another which were not important to defense but that there were others just outside hemispheric boundaries which might be terribly important. It is impossible, he asserted, to draw an imaginary line and put a buoy on it.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke during a discussion centering around the dispatch of American forces to Iceland. He answered indirectly a question as to whether he had definite information that German or other forces were about to move into the North Atlantic island.

Matter of Strategy.
Mr. Roosevelt said he thought he could not answer categorically but that in war, one puts one's self in the place of the other fellow and attempts to determine what the other fellow would do. Sometimes one has information and sometimes not, he declared.

"Do you think the other fellow is likely to make any move toward the Azores or Cape Verde Islands?" a reporter inquired.

The President said he could not prognosticate.

He dismissed an improper question an inquiry whether American troops were in Greenland. To answer, he said, might disclose military information.

Whether Iceland is in the Western Hemisphere or outside, he said, depends on what geographer was last consulted.

Wheeler Reproved.

The White House openly reproved Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, for saying on July 3 that he had information the United States was about to take over the island. It took the position that he had divulged a military secret prematurely.

The development shared interest with the expectation that ground troops soon would follow the navy to the nation's newest and farthest Atlantic outpost, and speculation as to the number and nature of the military units to be so dispatched.

Meanwhile, Sumner Welles, the acting secretary of state, told reporters that plans for helping Soviet Russia place orders here were proceeding so rapidly and effectively that discussions were reduced to working out details.

At the same time the War Department announced it had called to extended active duty all air corps reservists whose civilian jobs are not of primary importance. The reservists, several hundred in all, are to be on duty by August 1.

Wheeler said last Thursday he was "reliably informed that we are about to take over Iceland and send troops and planes there." The men would embark on the 23rd or 24th of July, he added. He was advised further, he said, that the administration wanted to take the island so that American ships could carry goods to that point and transfer them to British vessels.

"Then," he continued, "American ships and planes will patrol the routes used by the British on the remainder of the journey across the Atlantic."

Washington immediately recalled this statement by the Montana senator, a consistent opponent of the Roosevelt foreign policy, when the President announced.

F. D. R.'s Announcement Heard In Iceland as U. S. Troops Land

By A. THORSTEINSSON.
REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 8.—(UP)—American warships and supply ships arrived here yesterday some hours before President Roosevelt's announcement was heard in Iceland via a London radiocast at 8:45 p. m. (Greenwich meridian time).

Some American troops already have landed.

The population and the press received the news calmly. Premier Hermann Jonasson, in a radiocast to the nation last night, read the texts of his and President Roosevelt's messages and explained conditions and details of the American occupation.

He announced an extraordinary session of the althing (parliament) for Wednesday, when the government will give detailed explanations.

A leading Reykjavik newspaper said editorially:

"We trust that in the future Iceland can enjoy liberty and independence."

(Editor's Note: Thorsteinsson's dispatch, filed to London at noon (Iceland time) today, reached there at 3 a. m., Wednesday (London time). This delay, and advice from Thorsteinsson that he had "made available the information, as permitted, as soon as possible" indicated the likelihood that censorship was in effect.)

Furious Red Assaults Hurl Back Germans At Several Points in Line, Moscow Asserts; Nazis Beaten to Dead Halt for Fourth Day

FIGHTS FOR CUSTODY.—The Georgia supreme court, yesterday awarded to Mrs. Ralph Richards the temporary custody of her son by another marriage. Another hearing must be held to determine whether she shall have the permanent custody for which she pleaded on the grounds her former husband, Hanns Paul Kniekamp Sr., ex-officer in the Reichswehr, is a Hitler sympathizer.

Mother Hopes Kentucky Gives To Rear Son Georgia Trucks As American Special Permit

Child Weaned From 'Heil Hitler' to 'Heil Columbia.'

By HAROLD MARTIN.
Sonny, aged 4, doesn't raise his chubby arm in the Nazi salute and chirp "Heil Hitler" any more, as his mother claims his daddy taught him to do when he was 2. A new daddy is teaching him to salute the American flag.

He's not going to be packed off to military school in Germany, either, like his mother claims his daddy planned for him to do. He's going to stay in this country and grow up to be a good American—if the court are kind and she is allowed to keep him in her custody all the time, as yesterday the supreme court of Georgia permitted her to do temporarily.

He's not even going to be known by the name he was given at birth—Hanns Paul Kniekamp Jr.—the name borne by the mon-

$50,000 Blaze At Stockyards Draws Throng

Spectacular Fire Seen 15 Miles Away, Thousands Jam Scene.

Fourteen trucks belonging to the Upchurch Packing Company were destroyed shortly before 12 o'clock last night when fire badly damaged three large barns on Brady avenue, in the heart of the stockyards district.

Damage was estimated at $50,000.

The barns damaged were the packing company's storage barn, 19 Brady avenue, N. W.; the T. L. Smith barn at 15 Brady avenue, and the Dave Vaughn barn at 11 Brady avenue.

Flames from the burning buildings shot high into the air, and could be seen about 15 miles away at the Bert Adams Boy Scout camp near Vinings, Ga.

Thousands of Atlantans, seeing the fire from their homes, rushed to the scene, giving police a problem in keeping the streets open for additional fire-fighting equipment, ordered shortly after Fire Chief Styron reached the scene.

The fire was first discovered by a nightwatchman in the rear of the Upchurch barn and spread to the other barns near by.

Watchman Finds Fire.

W. H. Dann, a nightwatchman for the packing company, said the fire originated in the company's garage in the rear of the barn. He said he heard explosions after the blaze started.

Immediately upon discovering the fire, Dann and others released the cattle, running them out into the streets and managed to save four trucks from the garage part of the barn.

Some cattle were in the Smith barn, but it was not determined immediately whether all of the stock was released. It was said there were no animals in the Vaughn barn.

Firemen from practically all Atlanta companies were called to battle the flames, which were brought under control in about an hour.

Insurance Coverage.

Officials of the packing company said the building was insured for $16,000 and that additional insurance covered all equipment.

Vaughn, police were told, did not have anything in his barn, but last night were unable to ascertain the loss in the barn occupied by Smith.

The three large barns, fronting about 100 feet each on Brady avenue, have brick fronts, but the rear of the buildings are of frame construction. The fronts appeared undamaged except for broken windows.

There were 18 trucks in the garage, but Dann said he managed to get at least four of them out of the building.

The fire spread so rapidly that the building was practically enveloped in flames before a fire alarm could be turned in.

Partly Cloudy, Showers

Forecast Here Today

More of the same, in effect, was what the weatherman promised for Atlanta today, according to the prediction made yesterday by the United States Weather Bureau.

The forecast was partly cloudy, with a slight probability of thundershowers in the afternoon, and temperature extremes between 70 and 80 degrees. Temperature ranged yesterday between 70 and 89 degrees.

Woman Is Held In Slaying on Forsyth Street

Mrs. Dana Campbell Is Shot in Front of Postoffice.

Mrs. Dana Campbell, 25, of 1421 Gordon street, S. W., proprietress of a restaurant at 82 Forsyth street, S. W., was shot and killed about 10 o'clock last night as she sat with her brother in an automobile parked in front of the new postoffice building on Forsyth street.

Police are holding Mrs. Bernice Rogers, 40, of 733 Pryor street, S. W., who surrendered to Patrolman J. D. Stribling shortly after the shooting.

Stribling said in his report that he had gone to investigate the shot when Mrs. Rogers met him at the corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets. "I've just shot a woman," she is reported to have told him. She handed him a .22-caliber automatic.

Mrs. Campbell was shot once in the right chest. The bullet penetrated the lung, according to Grady hospital physicians, who pronounced her dead on arrival. She was taken to the hospital by her brother, Nick Budures, 1312 McLendon avenue, N. E.

At police headquarters Mrs. Rogers refused to comment on the shooting. Detectives H. C. Preston and J. A. Newton, assigned to the case, booked her on a charge of suspicion of murder and added that they would question her this morning.

Harris' Condition Reported Serious

The condition of Evelyn Harris, prominent telephone company official who was injured Monday in an auto accident near Clayton, yesterday was reported "more serious than first thought" at St. Joseph's infirmary.

Doctors and nurses were battling to prevent his contracting pneumonia and were administering serum.

"He is holding his own today, and we feel that this is very favorable considering his injuries," his special nurse said yesterday. She described his condition generally as "precarious."

Great Losses Disrupt Drive, Observers Say

Reticent Berlin May Be Screening New Maneuver.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The Red armies reported early today that farspread counterattacks were driving the Germans back at several points along the eastern front, and that in all other sectors they were holding firmly against the invaders.

There was independent evidence, too, that the Nazi offensive had been halted everywhere.

Some of the heaviest fighting was in the lower Ukraine where the southernmost of two Nazi thrusts in that region was said by the Soviet command to have been turned into a disorderly German-Rumanian retreat of considerable magnitude.

Here, it was stated, the Nazis were thrown back across the Prut river—which forms the boundary between old Russia and the recently Sovietized former Rumanian province of Bessarabia—to the vicinity of Balti. That town is 50 miles within Bessarabia.

Fighting at Hango.

Other Red counterattacks were said to have been loosed in the regions of Ostrov, whence the Nazis were trying to get at Leningrad; Polotsk, along the Russian center protecting Moscow, and Novogrod-Volynski, the area of the German thrust into the Ukraine toward Kiev, the capital.

In the far northern theater, said Moscow's early morning communiqué, Red warships "made a successful landing for co-operation with the Red army," but just where was not disclosed.

There was land fighting, however, near Hango, a naval base on the Finnish peninsula leased by the Soviet, and in the region of Murmansk, the Soviet arctic port near the Finnish frontier.

German reverses were indicated not alone by the official Soviet version but by the extraordinary restraint of the German high command and by information reaching military observers in Vichy, France.

In Vichy—which is not as un-

It's Great To Be an American, Says Letter in F. D. R.'s Mail

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt read to his press conference today a letter from a man who would "rather be an American than anything else on earth." The President said he thought it was a rather nice letter and gave out the text for publication. The sender was identified only as a resident of Missouri and his name was withheld. The letter, dated June 29, read:

Dear President Roosevelt:
I am a married man, 28 years old; a boy, 3; a girl, 1. Here's how I feel about being an American.

My ancestors were Czechoslovakians, my wife's English; but we're Americans. I look at my refrigerator, my oil heater, and my radio. I'm glad I'm an American. My children get cod liver oil, nourishing food, and a doctor's watchful care. They'll be glad they're Americans.

This morning, I went to church. Amongst my neighbors, unafraid and unmolested, I thanked God for giving us America.

I went home to my wife and kiddies. My little boy, Douglas, came running and said, "Hi Pop. You gonna take me to see the ribber?"

And I said, "Sure Doug, I'll take you to see the river."

"And we'll stand on the bridge, and see the car cars Pop."

"Sure Doug."

"Pop see the sun. Look see Pop. It shine in the car cars window."

"Yes, Doug, the sun's shining on all America."

After our walk, we came home, and set down to veal chops, baked potatoes, fresh green beans and corn on the cob. I said grace with tears in my eyes. I'm so happy I'm an American.

This afternoon, we listened to a radio rebroadcast of British children, here in America, talking to their parents in England, and I was proud to be an American.

Tomorrow, I'll go to work. I work in an electrolyte foundry, and I love my job. I made it, in fact, from errand boy to production manager in two years. I had ideas and I told the boss about them. He's an American.

Tonight, before going to bed, I told my wife, "Honey, I'm going to buy a large flag and hang it out the window Friday. The President wants everyone to pledge allegiance to a new and united America. And Honey, I'm going to do my part, because I'd rather be an American than anything else on earth."

Women Enroll For Red Cross Classes Here

50 Respond for Training in Motor, Mechanic Courses.

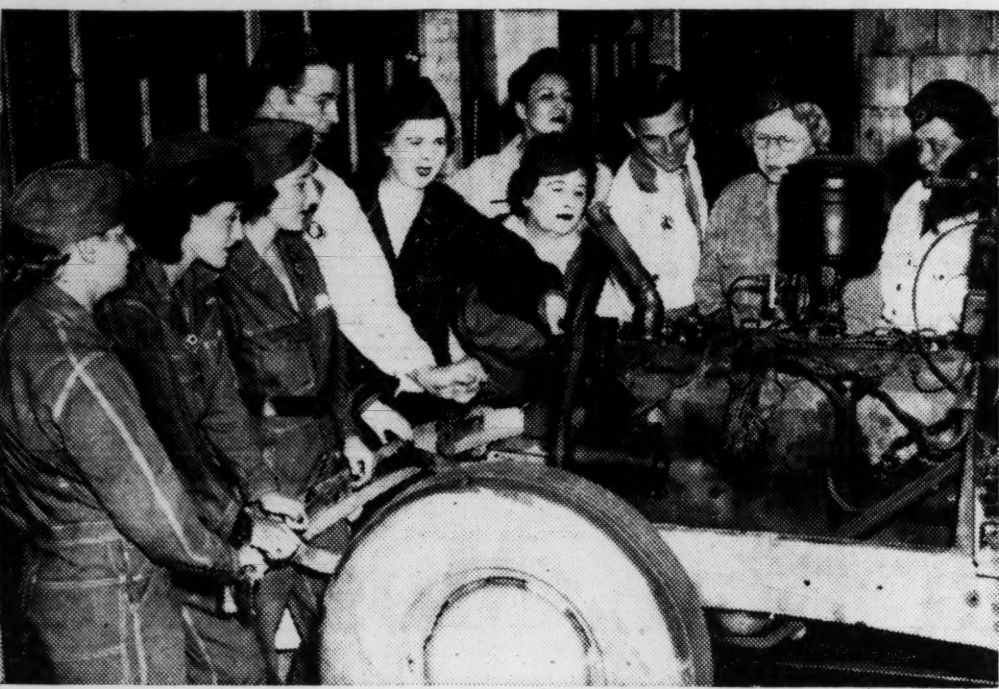

Pale hands that have fluttered over the delicate china of Atlanta's most fashionable tables this week clinched into fists to learn how to wrench broken parts from war motors.

More than 50 women have enrolled in two Red Cross motors and mechanics classes and with ungloved hands are learning the essentials of motor repair in case of war emergency.

Beginning their study Monday night at the Capitol Auto Company, 796 West Peachtree street, the women watched movies of what makes autos and trucks run and then spent several hours tinkering with cars under the guidance of expert instructors.

When the courses of study are done, they will be able to take the place of many a male mechanic whose work is needed elsewhere.

Two classes of 25 women each already have been filled and others are being formed. Each applicant must pass a first-aid course to be eligible to enroll. Numbered among the first entrants in the classes are some of Atlanta's most fashionable hostesses, each anxious to become a "grease monkey" or mechanic when and if Uncle Sam goes out to do battle.

Mother Wants To Raise Son as an American

cle-wearing ex-officer of the Reichwehr who is his father. That's going to be changed to plain Ralph Richards, the name his new daddy bears.

An American Boy.

He's never going to be taught that his veins runs the "pure Prussian blood" of which his father, a naturalized American, remained so proud even after becoming a citizen of this country. And he's not going to be taught to feel contempt for Americans, and everything American, as his mother in her battle for his custody has charged his father feels.

He's just going to grow up in Gainesville, Ga., in his new home, like any other American kid, untouched, if she can keep him so, by the brutal hates and passions that she is fighting to keep from him now.

She will soon know whether he is to be hers alone—or what she dreams most, hers only part of the time—his father's the remainder. And if that happens, maybe never her again.

"I'm afraid he'll take him away, to Germany perhaps, where I will never see him again," she said yesterday at her home in Gainesville.

But the story, to be understood, must go back to the beginning. Born in the Black Forest, in Baden, southern Germany, educated in Switzerland and France,

Pia Olga Tenfel, daughter of a German schoolmaster, came to this country to learn English, so she might go back home to teach. At a meeting of the German Legion, organization of German ex-officers of the first World War living in New York, she met Hans Paul Kniekamp, then a lawyer, but for eight years, during and after the World War a typical German army officer, cast in the heel-clicking Prussian mold.

They were married, and with him she went to Ovid, N. Y., to start a silver fox farm. And there, four years ago yesterday, little Hans, now Sonny, was born. The baby grew, and as he learned to say his first few words, his father taught him to throw up his fat arm and say "Heil Hitler." She didn't like it, nor what it stood for. Her father had died before the French guns at Verdun and to her Hitler was leading Germany to another bloody war.

He Claimed Superiority. But she couldn't say anything. For, as she claims in her plea in Habersham superior court for custody, his father has frequently stated "that she is his inferior because he claims to be of pure Prussian blood (she) was born and lived in southern Germany."

That the father had warned her "not to get American ideas of the position of a wife in the family." And that she "must always look up to him as one of pure Prussian blood and immediately obey every order and suggestion of his." She remained quiet while the baby learned his little Nazi gesture.

Nor did she like other manifestations of his German sympathies. The fact, as she claims in her plea for custody, that he "never ceased to state in her presence his contempt for America and everything American. That he associated principally with Germans. That he closely associated himself with and worked with and for had his office with 'Deutscher Handels und Wirtschaftsdienst,' (ostensibly a German commercial agency) operated by Baron Jochen Friedrich von Wimmersperg and Ernest O. Hopf at the Whitehall building, 17 Battery place, New York," an organization which, she claimed, "the former German consul at New York, Dr. Paul Schwarz, advised the United States district attorney was the New York headquarters of the German Gestapo."

Fled from Mob. Her husband, she claimed, was injured by a bomb explosion in this office in June of 1940, and once was forced to flee from a mob which claimed he was a German spy.

In July of 1940, a divorce was granted in Florida on grounds of desertion, with the decree stipulating that the baby should be hers for six months of the year, his for the remainder of the year. Shortly afterward she married Ralph Richards, young Miami ad-

Dates Aplenty Volunteer for Service Party

212 Beauties Answer Call; 188 More Needed.

As pretty a bunch of femmes as you'll cherech if you search all day volunteered yesterday to be "dates" for soldier boys at the Young Democrats' service men's party Friday night—but still needed are exactly 188 more blonds, brunets, redheads and mixtures thereof.

That was the situation at the "date bureau" when a shapely dozen of those gorgeous creatures who model fashions for The Constitution's style page showed up to do their share at entertaining the boys in khaki. They were setting the pace for other Atlanta girls who could so easily have a good time and help a soldier have the same by dancing with him at the Young Democrats' big party.

Cal Courtney, executive secretary of the Young Democrats of Georgia, sponsors of the affair, asked that any girl who wishes to take part in the gay carnival call him at the Henry Grady hotel. Two hundred and twelve have volunteered already, but 188 more are needed for the 500 service men who will be there. The party is being given at the city auditorium and is free to soldiers and sailors, and admission to civilians is $1 a couple.

Plenty of fun starts promptly at 8 o'clock Friday night. Bingo, apple bobbing, old-fashioned cake-walks, square dances, fortune telling—all the old standbys will whirl things off just to get everybody acquainted, and then at 9 o'clock dancing will begin to Irving Melchior's music. There will be a floor show, too, from the Henry Grady hotel.

To set the minds of the boys and girls at ease, Courtney said he is going to introduce the male and female of the species to each other according to heights—six-foot girls won't have to dance with four-footers and "shorties" will have a bit of femininity no taller than his left ear.

Sounds nice? Well, do your bit and encourage the girls to register with Courtney at the Henry Grady hotel before Friday. For it is where you find it, and the auditorium Friday night is a good place to look.

vertising man, brother of her Miami attorney's wife. They came to Clarksville, and there, for a short time, lived happily.

He claimed last year her former husband came, through his attorney, demanding to see the boy, she alleged. She at first refused, then finally consented, and he demanded another visit, which she refused.

He Awarded Custody. He brought legal proceedings in Habersham county, demanding the right to see his son during the period of the mother's custody. Through Joseph G. Collins, of Gainesville, she brought a counter plea. Pointing out the change in the attitude of this country, of which he is a citizen, to Germany, to which he still felt sympathetic, she asked the child be granted to her alone. On May 29, Judge T. S. Candler of the northeastern circuit, granted her full custody.

Her former husband, through Attorneys Hamilton and Herbert Kimzey, carried the fight to the supreme court.

Yesterday they ruled that Sonny may stay with her, for a while. But that another hearing must settle the question of whether he may be hers alone.

She will keep on fighting. "It's hard," she says. "So many lawyers' fees to pay. He is a lawyer and can bring many suits. But as long as I can I will fight to keep my boy."

Sonny, fat, blue-eyed little 50-pounder, knows nothing of all this. He rides his tricycle and climbs all over his new daddy. And when somebody asks him his name he doesn't say "Hanns Kniekamp." He says "Walp Richards."

Jobless for May Fewest Since 1930

NEW YORK, July 8.—(P)—The division of industrial economies of the Industrial Conference Board reported today that unemployment in May dropped 1,395,000 for the lowest total since September, 1930. In May of this year 3,962,000 persons were unemployed compared with 8,735,000 persons in the same 1940 month.

Usual seasonal decreases in employment in the manufacturing industry during April and May were wiped out by an increase of 164,000 this May. Increases in other industries were larger than seasonal.

The combined total of WPA, CCC and out-of-school NYA workers declined in May, for the third consecutive month, to 2,120,000, or 154,000 below the April total.

The government continued to expand its employment rolls. There were 1,317,000 persons employed by the government during May of this year, compared with 989,000 in May, 1940. Total military forces equaled 1,662,000, a rise of 116,000 over the previous month.

Congressmen Asked To Delay Tobacco Sales

Georgia Crop 2 Weeks Late; Linder Fears $2,000,000 Loss.

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder yesterday called upon Georgia's two senators and members of congress from the tobacco belt to use their influence to change the opening of the tobacco auction in Georgia from August 5 to August 15, warning that unless this was done Georgia growers would lose an estimated $2,000,000 on this year's crop.

Linder pointed out that the state's tobacco crop, which last year sold for more than $12,000,000, was about two weeks late, while the auctions were set for three days earlier than last year.

He emphasized that if farmers are forced to rush their tobacco to market they will not be able to tie the grade it properly and consequently will receive lower prices. The August 5 opening date was set by the Tobacco Association of the United States. Linder said he had asked J. W. Dunnington, of Farmville, Va., president of the association, to change the opening date but was told he would have to contact H. R. Pettus, chairman of the sales committee at Richmond, Va. It would require about five days for Pettus to call his committee together, Linder said.

"The tobacco growers are in a desperate situation, in that over 95 per cent of Georgia tobacco has not had a single leaf pulled off the stalk and carried to the barn," Linder wrote Senator Russell.

He pointed out that the fluctuating tobacco crop is more than two weeks late because of blue mold and adverse weather conditions.

Linder added that his office was swamped with telephone calls, telegrams and letters urging the opening date be set up to August 15.

In suggesting some method for getting approval of the proposed new date, Linder said:

"It is my thought that you could contact the congressmen and senators from Virginia and North Carolina to assist us, also the senators and congressmen from Florida, who would be especially interested in this move, as this situation affects Florida the same as south Georgia."

Farmers "Robbed." The deplorable situation confronting the Georgia tobacco growers was discussed at length by the Macon News in an editorial which charged that the farmers were being robbed.

The editorial suggested that if Governor Talmadge and Commissioner Linder wanted to perform a real service for the people of Georgia they might make a study of the reasons why Georgia farmers are forced to sell their tobacco weeks before it reaches a stage where it would bring the best price.

It was charged that the opening date is set by Carolina warehousemen "who have absolutely no sympathy for Georgia's loss." "They run the Georgia show as a sort of preliminary or sideline," the editorial continued. "All they are interested in is making $15,000 or $20,000 in Georgia and getting into Carolina before the season there opens August 26."

Mrs. H. P. Rhodes Succumbs Here

Mrs. Jessie Mae Oakes Rhodes, wife of H. P. Rhodes, booking manager for Lucas and Jenkins theaters, died yesterday at her residence, 2450 Peachtree road.

A native of Cleveland, Ga., she had been a resident of Atlanta for a number of years. Until her death she was a cashier for the Southern Bell Telephone Company. She was married to Rhodes last New Year's eve.

She is survived by her husband; one sister, Mrs. W. T. Parr, of Decatur, and two brothers, C. T. Oakes and G. A. Oakes, of Athens. Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill by Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby. Burial will be in Decatur cemetery.

2,000 Made Homeless In Chungking Bombing

CHUNGKING, China, July 8.—(P)—Scores of buildings were wrecked, 2,000 Chinese made homeless and the British ambassador's residence was damaged extensively in Japanese war anniversary raids on Chungking last night and early today.

The raids attacked by predawn moonlight, concentrating on the commercial section along the Yangtze river. Bombs lifted whole buildings into the air, opening up new views of the hills surrounding this wartime Chinese capital.

Berlin Calls Iceland Move Stab in Back

Assumes Crusader Role and Borrows Phrase of President. BERLIN, July 9.—(Wednesday) (P)—The mouthpiece of the German foreign office, Deutsche Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz, today viewed the United States entry into Iceland as a stab in the back of a European community which it said was struggling with Bolshevism for preservation of western civilization. Its comment was the first from competent German quarters on the Iceland situation.

The Boersen Zeitung, Berlin's leading financial paper and the only other publication to comment, called the United States action "the brutal rape of a small European people."

It also said, "Herr Roosevelt entered the operations zone of this war and consciously set foot on the battlefield where the sharp-shooting is going on. The responsibility lies with him."

The Boersen Zeitung is known to have excellent connections at the Wilhelmstrasse. REAL INTERVENTION, FASCISTS DECLARE. ROME, July 8.—(P)—Rome political circles today said that the arrival of American forces in Iceland "constitutes real and true intervention in European waters."

WAR DE FACTO. TOKYO SAYS. TOKYO, July 8.—(P)—The United States' dispatch of naval forces to occupy Iceland "is de facto participation in the war," the Nationalist newspaper Kokumin said today.

School Group To View Plan For Foundation

Proposal on $23,000 Basement for Murphy Junior High Favored.

The building and grounds committee of the Atlanta board of education will consider a proposal to construct the foundation and basement of the proposed $600,000 Murphy Junior high school for $23,000.

Appearing before the board yesterday C. H. Van Ormer, president of the Second Ward Alliance, said Scott Candler, DeKalb county commissioner, will do all work on the foundation if the board will turn over to DeKalb county the $23,000 it has on hand for the projected new school.

Van Ormer said Candler has given Second ward citizens every assurance that he wishes to cooperate fully in the undertaking, and that DeKalb county and WPA can complete all excavation work and construction incident to construction of the foundation for the $23,000 now available. The board was impressed with the proposal and sent it to the committee for consideration.

Mrs. R. C. Harris, representing the East Lake elementary school, appealed to the board to purchase a lot adjacent to the present school and to erect portables to relieve congestion in the institution.

The board's finance committee, a committee from the May-June grand jury and members of the Fulton county commission will confer on grand jury recommendations that schools be established to care for juvenile delinquents.

Old Doc's Gone, But Lige Will Soon Forget It

Drive To Buy Negro New Horse Makes Headway.

The money ball started rolling yesterday in the informal—but nonetheless effective—"campaign" to raise money to buy a horse for Old Lige, as a generous Atlanta woman lead off with a check for $5 and a letter suggesting how the needed funds can be quickly collected.

The check was from Mrs. Annie B. Clark, of 885 Ponce de Leon Place, member of a pioneer Georgia family, and was in addition to dollar bills sent in by two others, Mrs. P. H. Pittman and W. C. Hayes.

Old Lige's plight was revealed in Tuesday morning's Constitution, in a news account of how his faithful horse, Doc, with which the elderly Negro earned his livelihood, was injured to such a degree the animal had to be shot.

Heading her letter: "Let's Buy a Horse for Lige," Mrs. Clark wrote:

"This tragic story of two faithful old workers has touched my heart deeply—as, in fact, do all such animal stories. I love animals, especially horses.

"Suppose all you good folks—men and women—who smoke give the price of one pack of cigarettes to help buy a horse for Lige. Eh? Why, he could almost buy a Whirlaway for the money thus obtained—BUT Lige aspires to nothing like that—all Lige wants is another good, strong, faithful horse to help him make a living.

"How about it, folks?"

"Here is five dollars to start the ball rolling."

Contributions may be sent to A. J. Kaiser, care of The Constitution.

State 'All-Star' Banking Parley To End Today

100 Bankers Study Problems of Money, Financing.

Some 100 Georgia bankers will close at noon their three-day "All-Star" Conference in which they have listened to speeches by visiting experts, taken notes and talked shop on banking problems.

E. Warren Moise, Atlanta attorney, will speak to the group in their closing session this morning on the subject, "Handling Life Insurance Loans." Willis Johnson, president of the Citizens Bank & Trust Company at West Point, Ga., will be chairman of the morning program.

Most of the conference has been devoted to strictly technical discussion of banking methods, and talks have been on such subjects as "Internal Bank Auditing," "Economics in Bank Operation" and "Streamlining Bank Operations."

Dr. Mose L. Harvey, professor of history at Emory University, where the conference is being held, spoke last night at a dinner meeting.

The bankers roomed in Winship Hall on the Emory campus, and were provided meals in the University cafeteria. The conference was sponsored by the Georgia Bankers' Association and the Emory Banking Department.

4 Swedish Craft Reported Sunk By Nazi Planes

Losses Bring Sweden's Total Up to 102 Vessels.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Description of four ships carrying the neutral flag of Sweden and of a Danish freighter flying the Red Duster of Britain was disclosed in maritime circles today. Sweden has now lost 102 vessels.

A long-range German plane pounced on a British convoy of 70 ships off the African coast and sank the 1,770-ton Swedish freighter Gunda. Her crew of 18 was saved by a British freighter in the convoy.

Other Swedish ships sunk were the Stig Gorthon, 2,241 tons, destroyed in the North sea, crew saved; the Calabria, 1,271 tons, with three crewmen missing and presumed killed, and the 1,392-ton freighter Taberg, sunk in the Atlantic with only six survivors.

The Irene Maria, 1,862 tons, a Danish vessel taken over by the British after Germany's conquest of Denmark, was sunk in the Atlantic. Her crew of 20 were missing and presumed dead.

Marine circles also said the Bulgarian freighter Knyaginya Maria Louisa, 3,821 tons, had gone down after a fire in the harbor at Piraeus, Greece, and that eight crew members were burned to death.

Reed Gives State Drivers Final Warning

Ten-Day Extension Ends Tomorrow; 100,000 To Go.

Approximately 100,000 Georgians face the prospect of taking driving examinations to obtain new drivers' licenses if they do not apply for renewals before tomorrow, at midnight, Major W. Price Reed, deputy commissioner of public safety, warned yesterday.

The ten-day extension of the time for obtaining new licenses expires at midnight Thursday, and positively no more extensions will be made, Reed said.

Some 500,000 licenses have already been issued this year, and State Patrol headquarters are now filling 100,000 applications by mail. Another 100,000 drivers have made no application.

Beginning July 15 motorists will be stopped and asked to show their licenses, it was said.

Trainloads of Wounded Germans Seen in Berlin

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—The CBS Stockholm correspondent quoted a traveler reaching Sweden from Germany today as declaring that many trainloads of German wounded are reaching Berlin from the eastern front.

"I counted seven such trains myself when leaving Berlin three days ago," the traveler said. "It is said that the reason the German wounded are sent so far back from the front is that hospitals in Poland and East Prussia are already filled."

Southern Bell Sets Building At $51,000,000

Expected Expenditure To Better 1940 by $15,000,000.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company expects to spend more than $51,000,000 in its territory this year for new construction.

E. B. Emrey, Georgia manager for the company, said yesterday the estimated new construction for the year would exceed by nearly $15,000,000 the amount spent for the same purposes last year when telephone activity in the south touched new highs.

A substantial portion of the allotment for new construction will be spent on additional long-distance facilities, outside exchange facilities and for central office equipment.

More than 13,000 new telephones were installed in Georgia in the first six months of this year, nearly double the number for the first half of 1940, which itself was a record year, Emrey said.

In Georgia, the gain in long-distance traffic for the five months was 22 per cent over the same period last year. The company handled a total of 3,405,015 long-distance calls in the five-month period. Atlanta's long-distance traffic gain was 30 per cent.

Australian War Output Is Praised by British

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—British purchasing commissioners said today that Australia's industrial war effort had amazed them and that production of manufactured goods from the empire had exceeded all expectations.

The commissioners, Francis W. Leake and Alexander Rogers, left for London on the Yankee Clipper after a tour of Australia and India. The Clipper carried eight Lisbon-bound and 17 Bermuda-bound passengers and 2,574 pounds of mail.

Death of U. S. Observer In Iraq Announced

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—The Navy Department reported today that Lieutenant Commander George W. Grove, an observer with the Royal Air Force in Iraq, was killed last month in an air-plane crash.

Grove previously had been reported missing since June 13 on a Royal Air Force flight in Iraq. The department said that information from the American minister at Bagdad was that the body had been found in a wrecked plane on the desert and that apparently all aboard the plane had been killed instantly. There was no information as to the cause of the crash.

The American minister advised that funeral services for Commander Grove were held at Basrah on July 4.

The naval officer is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katharine Grove, of Cornwall, Conn.

Isaac Blank, Grocer, Found Shot to Death

Son Discovers Body, Gun in Rear of Store.

Isaac Blank, 55-year-old grocer, victim of many hold-ups over the past years, was found early yesterday morning by his 18-year-old son, Joe, shot to death in the rear of his store at 350 Highland avenue, N. E.

Circumstances surrounding the death of Isaac Blank yesterday was similar to those involved in the death of his brother, Mac Blank, 55, a groceryman, who was found shot to death in his store 14 months ago at 1198 Highland avenue.

The body of Mac Blank was found about 6 o'clock in the morning with a .38-caliber pistol by his side and a coroner's jury ruled that "he came to his death from wounds inflicted by a party or parties unknown."

Isaac Blank's wife yesterday told Patrolmen N. E. Nolan and N. P. Miller, investigating officers summoned to the Highland avenue address about 6:10 o'clock, that a customer shouted upstairs to the family's living quarters that the store was deserted and the front door was standing open.

The patrolmen said they found a .38-caliber pistol lying beneath the body which was face down between a refrigerator and a flour bin.

Mrs. Blank told Mrs. Paul Donohoo, Fulton county coroner, that her husband usually opened the store about 5:45 o'clock every morning and that he did not own a pistol. Both the son and daughter told officers they did not hear the report of a gun.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Greenberg funeral parlor and Rabbi Maurice Schwartz will officiate. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Survivors include the widow; one son, Joe, and one daughter, Mildred, both of Atlanta, and one sister, Mrs. Sam Silverzwieg, of New York city.

Mrs. Paul Donohoo, Fulton county coroner, announced that an inquest would be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Greenberg Funeral Home.

Marked Terrapin Moves Half Mile in 26 Years

How fast does a terrapin travel when he isn't racing with a rabbit?

The answer, in this instance, is one-half mile every 26 years. In 1915 Will Wright, North Fulton farmer, carved his name and the date on the back of a terrapin he found in his field about seven miles north of Alpharetta. He turned the critter loose and yesterday it was found by his 9-year-old grandson, Elton Wright Jr., of Atlanta, who was visiting him. The terrapin hadn't gone more than half a mile from the spot where Grandfather Wright initiated him 26 years ago.

Byrnes Leaves Senate Seat for Supreme Court

Oath as Associate Justice Given in President's Office.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—A legal career he began four decades ago as a circuit court stenographer in South Carolina reached its climax today when James Francis Byrnes relinquished his senate seat to be sworn in as an associate justice of the supreme court.

The oath was administered in President Roosevelt's office with the President, Governor Burnet R. Maybank, of South Carolina, scores of congressmen and officials, including the South Carolina delegation, friends and kinsmen looking on.

Noting a large gathering of senate friends, including Majority Leader Barkley and the veteran Virginian, Carter Glass, assembled about him, President Roosevelt jokingly called the senate to "order" and admonished the "gallery" they could be as noisy as they pleased.

Then the President made a brief, impromptu speech. In a light vein, he said he wished he were Solomon so he could divide Byrnes in two, appointing one-half of him to the supreme court and leaving the other half in the senate where for the past eight years the South Carolinian had served as the President's chief lieutenant.

Since he could not do that, however, President Roosevelt said the supreme court would be honored and strengthened by Byrnes' presence. He expressed regret on losing Byrnes in the senate.

DECISION EXPECTED SOON ON VACANCY

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 8.—(AP)—Some announcement regarding the United States senate seat vacated by James F. Byrnes when he was sworn in today as a member of the supreme court may be expected as soon as Governor Burnet Maybank returns from Washington.

Maybank, who was among those witnessing Byrnes' oath-taking in President Roosevelt's office, was expected to leave for home tonight.

American Nurses Still Unreported

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—United States representatives in London were reported today to be anxious concerning a group of American Red Cross nurses who are several days overdue in Britain.

(An official of the American Red Cross in Washington said that although word was being awaited of the arrival of 10 nurses who sailed for England June 5 on a slow steamer, there was no "particular anxiety." A previous detachment took six weeks to reach London, it was pointed out.)

The nurses are part of a group of 65 who sailed from the United States for the Red Cross Harvard hospital in England. The overdue group is in addition to two nurses unaccounted for after torpedoing of the Netherlands steamer Maasdam.

Hitler Smash Unexpected, Letters Show

No Hint of Developments in Word Received Here From Moscow.

So swiftly and with such carefully concealed preliminaries did Hitler send his forces into Russia, June 22, that there is no suggestion of any major development impending in letters written as late as June 7 from Moscow by an Atlanta, Raymond Styles, stationed in the American embassy there, and since removed to a safer place.

Four recent letters, given The Constitution yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Styles, 427 West Ontario avenue, S. W., dealt with such matters as the favorable Russian reception to the film, "Midsummer Night's Dream," the seven-month winter, greater number of churches than he had at first believed, and the fact that one of his letters from home had reached him, water-stained and bearing the inscription: "Damaged by shipwreck, S. S. Vorovsky, April 3, 1941, near Astoria, Ore., U. S. A."

Young Styles, a Georgia Evening College and Emory Graduate, served as secretary to Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia. A brother of Rachel Styles, secretary to Senator Russell, of Georgia, he is chief of the reporting section at the embassy. He cabled his family of the embassy's removal the day after Hitler struck.

Heavy Rains Break Drouth Over Georgia

Some Crops Damaged by Wet Weather, Athens Reports.

ATHENS, Ga., July 8.—(P)—Heavy week-end rains in northern and eastern Georgia brought effective relief from the drouth, damage to some sections, and an eight-foot rise in the Oostanaula river at Rome.

More than four inches of rain fell here from Saturday noon until Monday morning. The week-end deluge brought the total for the first week of July to 4.65 inches, an excess for the month of 3.51 inches.

County Agent D. L. Branyon said considerable crop damage was caused by the "gully-washers." Numerous terraces and ditches were broken and the land badly washed.

The Oconee river here was far above normal, overflowing banks in some sections for the first time in several years.

Nearly seven inches of rain fell in the Rome section during the first week of July, sending the Oostanaula river to 16.6 feet, an almost unprecedented rise of 8.1 feet in 48 hours. Flood stage for the river is 25 feet.

Between two and three inches of rain fell in the Savannah river watershed over the weekend with the river at Augusta rising from 14 feet Sunday night to more than 20 feet Monday morning.

Some farm fields in the Augusta area were turned into boggy fields and plowlands were set to digging ditches to drain them.

The rainfall was heaviest in northern and eastern sections. Southern Georgia continued to receive light amounts that kept soil in good condition.

For the first week of the month, rain gauges showed the following: Rome, 6.94 inches; Athens, 4.65; Gainesville, 5.91; Newnan, 3.34; LaGrange, 5.31; Monticello, 2.16; Augusta, 2.94; Atlanta, 2 inches; Griffin, 1.77; Columbus, 1.19.

The Georgia Crop Reporting Service said there were "a few localities reporting some damage to crops because of wet weather."

Political Gnats And Fleas Irk The Governor

Talmadge Likens Critics to Members of Insect World.

Governor Talmadge admitted yesterday his skin had become so tough the red bugs wouldn't even bite him, but declared he was having plenty of trouble slapping at "gnats, fleas, flies and mosquitoes" who constantly harass him in his attempt to run the state government.

Writing for his political publication, the chief executive went into a detailed discussion of the life history, habits and habits of the insect world and ended up by likening them to some of his critics.

"The most lucrative field for these fictional gnats, flies, fleas, mosquitoes and red bugs is in government—especially where you are holding an office, and elected every two years by the people," he said.

"If you know that it is your duty as an official to look into the budgets and see that a fraud is not being perpetrated on the state, you will see that you have to eliminate some high-ups who are leading the people in the wrong direction, and you can look out for those mosquitoes to begin zooming around, trying to bluff you and letting you know that if you do that, he will bite you to death, and the gnats, and flies follow these zooming mosquitoes, hoping that the officials so that they can come in and suck the life of the freed bug," he continued.

Manifestly referring to his row with the State Board of Regents over his charges that there is Communism in the University System, the Governor added:

"The gnats, mosquitoes and flies have been zooming around me. The mosquitoes will not bluff me. I will not permit the traditions of Georgia to be trampled upon by any one advocating the intermingling of whites and blacks in our schools."

Whitney Ready To Leave Cell, Begin New Life

Former Stock Exchange Head Will Manage Estate.

OSNINGS, N. Y., July 8.—(P)—Richard Whitney, 53, five times president of the New York Stock Exchange and now convict 94,835 at Sing Sing prison, will be free August 11 to begin life anew. He will return to his native Massachusetts.

The three-member state parole board interviewed him for 15 minutes today, studied a pre-prepare report which included a favorable recommendation from the judge who sentenced him for misuse of $214,000 worth of securities, and then announced:

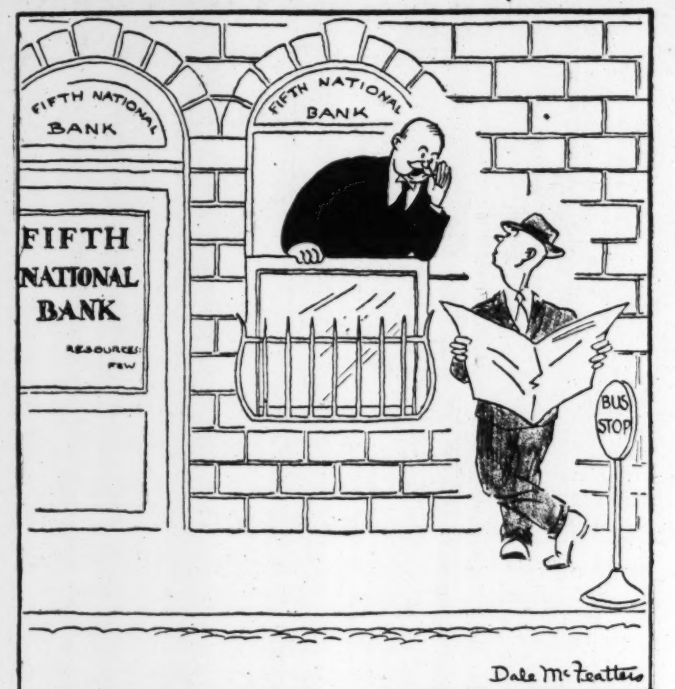

"We believe that Richard Whitney is a good parole risk and his release is not incompatible with the welfare of society."

The former society broker will become manager of a country estate whose chief revenue is from the sale of milk.

Whitney will live with his wife and their unmarried daughter, Alice, 22.

AFL Chemical 31 Companies Union Obtains Told To Begin Recognition Air Corps Jobs

Cartridge Plant Talks Stall on Wages, Union Shop.

By The Associated Press.

Western Cartridge Company and the American Federation of Labor Chemical Workers' Union announced last night they were in agreement on recognition of the local as bargaining agent for the 550 employees of the smokeless powder division of the huge ammunition works at East Alton, Ill.

But representatives of both sides after a two-hour conference said they were deadlocked on other union demands—wage increases and a union shop—and the discussion would be resumed Friday morning in Washington with the National Defense Mediation Board.

Recognition was the only demand of the union when a strike first was threatened at the plant which has United States government contracts of nearly $8,500,000. Other demands were made public at a conference last Saturday, and the strike has been held in abeyance.

The company suggested that the smokeless powder unit be organized as a separate company and today announced this had been done. The new company will be known as the East Alton Manufacturing Corporation.

Treason Laid To Wheeler by Bishop Hobson

Demands Congress Halt 'Disclosures of U. S. Secrets.'

NEW YORK, July 8.—(P)—The Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of southern Ohio and chairman of the National Council of the American People's Party, today denounced Senator Burton K. Wheeler's reference to the movement of United States forces into Iceland as "nothing short of treason."

He urged a congressional investigation to determine the source of Wheeler's information and declared:

"His revelations of this country's military activities could serve only one purpose, that of informing Nazi Germany in advance of America's defense preparations."

"Senator Wheeler's statement is nothing short of treason as contained in Article 111, Section 3, of the Constitution."

He said this was not the first time Wheeler had issued statements which served "our enemies."

"At a time when this country is defending its freedom against the attacks by totalitarianism everywhere, we must not allow ourselves to be defeated on the home front by actions which result in weakening our defense efforts from a member of the congress of the United States," Bishop Hobson said.

He said Congress "should take immediate steps to stop the deliberate disclosures of American military secrets by Senator Wheeler."

Recess in Milk Strike Voted

UTICA, N. Y., July 8.—(P)—County chairman of the Dairy Farmers' Union, sponsor of an eight-day milk strike sharply curtailing New York city's fluid supply, voted tonight to recess the strike tomorrow morning pending efforts of Owen D. Young to secure hearings on the federal order governing the metropolitan market.

Three Officers Are Promoted By C. & S. Bank

Adamson, McKinnon, Sessoms Advanced at Board Meeting.

Three officers in Atlanta of the Citizens & Southern National bank, who have been associated with the bank for many years, have been promoted, it was announced by H. Lane Young, president, following a meeting of the board of directors yesterday in Savannah.

The officers are Robert F. Adamson, newly-elected vice president, who has been cashier of the bank since 1934; George R. McKinnon, elevated to cashier, who was elected assistant cashier in June, 1937, and John G. Sessoms, who becomes assistant vice president in the credit department, and who was elected assistant cashier in February this year.

Adamson has been in banking for 26 years. Born and educated at Carrollton, he started his banking career with the Atlanta National Bank, where he worked until 1919.

Named Cashier in 1934.

In that year he joined the Atlanta Trust Company and during the following ten years worked up in various departments of the bank to the position of assistant secretary. In 1929 he became a member of the trust department staff at the Citizens & Southern and five years later, October 16, 1934, was elected cashier.

Last year Adamson was one of the Georgia bankers who completed successfully the three-year course of the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University. Adamson is a member of St. Mark Methodist church, Gate City Lodge No. 2, F. & A. M. and the Capital City Club. He resides with his wife, the former Miss Elma Burnett, of Thomaston, at 2785 Arden road.

McKinnon was born at Thomasville, following graduation from the University of Georgia, he started work immediately with the Citizens & Southern, where, he is just completing his 17th year.

One of Youngest.

In June, 1937, he was elected assistant cashier. With his present promotion, he becomes one of the youngest large bank cashiers in the south. McKinnon is a member of the Peachtree Methodist church and resides with his wife and son at 7 Prichard way.

Sessoms has the unusual record of two promotions during this year. In February he was elected assistant cashier and now becomes assistant vice president in the credit department of the bank. Born in Andalusia, Ala., his life except for the first few months, has been lived in Georgia.

He received his education at Emory University and the Eastman School of Business in New York state, where he received special secretarial training. After a brief experience as a law stenographer, he entered the employ of the bank as secretary to H. Lane Young, then executive vice president, in Atlanta. In 1934 he was transferred to the credit department.

CLUB MEETING.

Hancock Farmers Busy Fighting Boll Weevils

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

SPARTA, Ga., July 8.—Hancock farmers are reporting an unusually heavy infestation of boll weevils after the rains of the past few weeks, following the long dry season. With the price of the staple much higher, the farmers are fighting the pest with various poison methods and hope to make a crop despite the weevils. County Agent Dyer is aiding in the fight to save the crop from insects.

My, how we've changed!

WELL, WELL, Mr. and Mrs. Homefolks! What are all these bottles and packages on the medicine shelf? Toothpaste? Aspirin? Cod-liver oil? Antiseptics?

Where on earth did YOU learn about such things? Why, in the REST of the world, only the very rich even KNOW these products EXIST—much less that they are USEFUL or even NECESSARY to health.

Ah, hah! Somebody's been TELLING you. Drug and cosmetic manufacturers have been ADVERTISING; your papers must have been talking in the health columns; your druggist has been using newspaper space to help you understand the difference between the phony pain-killers of an earlier day and the scientific health and hygiene aids of 1941!

Do you think such advertising is costly? When someone teaches you that a QUARTER'S worth of a GOOD product can replace a DOLLAR'S worth of swamp water, you don't LOSE, you SAVE. When he does it in your newspaper, he gives the paper a good part of what it must pay for OTHER kinds of news—without which you would lose control over your political and social servants.

If that isn't a real bargain, just let Stalin and Hitler try to offer a better one!

Panama Police Battle German Colony, 10 Die

Nudists Slain When They Resist Demand for Registration.

PANAMA, Panama, July 8.—(AP) Ten persons were killed and eight wounded in a gun fight between police and a colony of "Swiss-German" nudists at Cotito, in Panama, 20 miles below the Costa Rican border, the ministry of government and justice reported today.

In a lengthy communique, the ministry said a police detachment led by Captain Antonio E. Hoff went to the colony late Monday to require the members to register and comply with other Panama immigration regulations.

They were met by gunfire which wounded their guide, the announcement said, and replied with a devastating volley which caused the deaths of seven men and three women colonists and the wounding of six women and a child.

Several colonists, declared to be armed with guns and machetes, were detained for investigation.

The government announcement said the group's leader was a Swiss German named Carlos Lehner and that he had warned the police on previous visits that the colony was prepared to use force in resisting registration.

Informed sources said they believed the colonists were the same who attempted to establish a nudist camp on the shores of Gatun lake several years ago.

(The Cotito area allegedly is a hotbed of Nazi activity, the United Press reported. Reliable sources said that Costa Rica has informed the Panamanian government of the existence of Nazi-operated radio stations in that area.)

Arnall Urges Senators To Aid Pensions

Attorney General Wants U. S. To Revise Age Assistance.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall yesterday wrote Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell his approval of a proposed plan to increase the old-age pension payments in Georgia.

Pointing out that he understood a senatorial committee would study a proposal to revise old-age assistance grants, the attorney general said:

"A system of variable grants for old-age assistance designed to increase old-age pension payments in Georgia would be highly helpful and beneficial to the people of our state."

He explained that under this system the states with low per capita incomes would receive a higher ratio of federal funds and could take advantage of more federal money since they would not have to match it dollar for dollar with state funds.

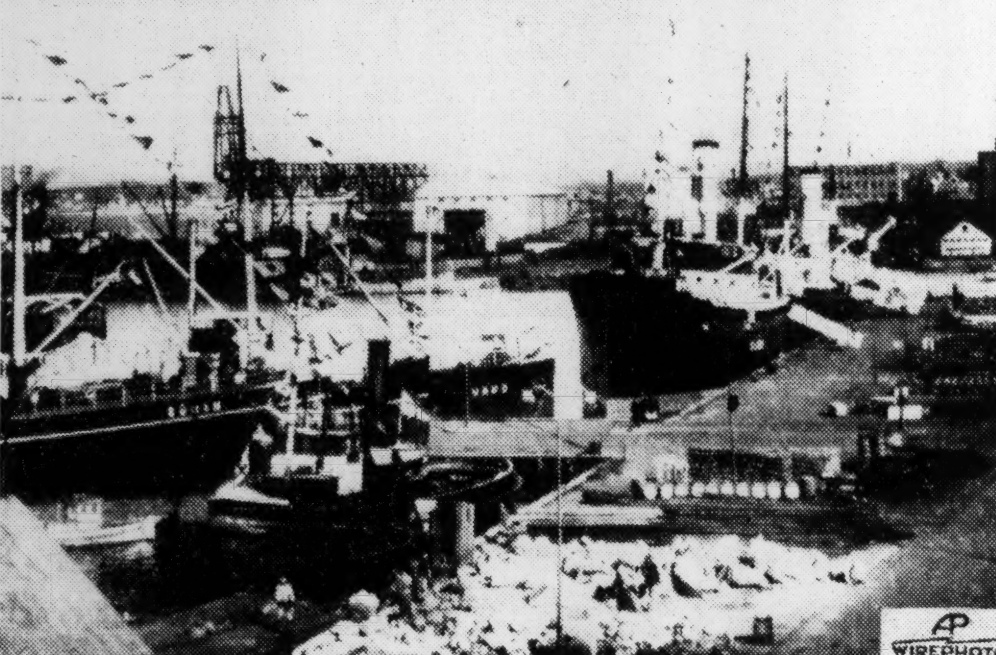

"There are many people in Georgia who are entitled to and deserve old-age pensions, but because the state is not matching available federal payments our old-age pensions remain low and limited to only a relatively few of our needy citizens," he wrote.

Welfare officials said the average monthly payments, including both federal and state funds, is $8.50, whereas the peak amount that can be paid is $30. It was estimated there are now approximately 30,000 persons eligible for pensions who are not receiving them because of lack of funds.

"Our old people in Georgia have been fooled so long that they are beginning to despair, and additional help by the federal government at this time would do a great deal to restore the faith of our people in our government," Arnall said.

Nazis Beaten To Halt for Fourth Day

likely a vantage point as it might appear, since officers there have many points of contact with the Nazis—it was said that the German thrust against the Stalin line had been substantially at a standstill yesterday for the fourth successive day.

These informants said the Nazis had been held back by the necessity of regrouping their units and of reorganizing supply, and by savage guerrilla resistance at their rear in which even Russian women and children were participating.

All this was tantamount to the statement that Hitler's forces were suffering enormous casualties and extremely heavy damage to their lines behind the front. Moreover, it was said in Vichy that the invasion was considerably behind schedule, having been originally planned to end successfully on August 10.

The German high command in its day communique devoted one sentence to the campaign: "Operations on the eastern front are proceeding on schedule."

Unofficial accounts in Berlin said the bitterest fighting yet to erupt was in progress, and stressed that the Russians were offering a trick as well as a savage defense. One of the few positive and specific achievements of German arms to be reported was the substantial destruction by Nazi bombers of Zhitomir, a city 80 miles southwest of Kiev, the Ukraine capital.

Secret Task Mentioned. Some Berlin observers, however, felt that behind the high command's silence was an indication that the second phase of the smash against Russia was developing, with fresh troops preparing a new surprise for the Red army. One propaganda company reporter spoke of several Nazi armies being moved for a secret task.

The German news agency DNB said that German and Rumanian troops had broken stubborn resistance of the Russians on the Bessarabian front and thrown the defenders back as far as the Dniestr in some places, taking many prisoners and much war material. The Dniestr is the boundary between Bessarabia which Russia got from Rumania a year ago, and the Ukraine.

It was reported today that, in the four-day period from July 2

U.S. Defense Limit Is Lifted By Roosevelt

through July 5, a total of 584 tanks and 550 guns was brought in by the Germans.

Lethal Decit. In support of German accounts that the Russians were working many a lethal decit, a Berlin communique thus illustrated: Red troops sprawled in the field like corpses permitted the Germans to approach and then sprang up wildly, losing a heavy fire.

Camouflaged Russian casemates, beyond which the Germans roared heedlessly, suddenly went into action with deadly attacks from the rear.

The Russians, in their day communique, asserted that at least 6,000 Germans had been annihilated along the center and left of the Red line and that on the lower Ukrainian front to the south the German forces were being wiped out.

This, specifically, was Moscow's picture of the front during the day.

The Germans were halted about Ostrov on the way to Leningrad, held at the center in the Bobruisk-Lepel-Podolsk sectors and suffering vast losses; flanked with the loss of two complete infantry regiments below Novogrod Volynski on the western Ukrainian front; cut up near Bobruisk with the loss of two infantry battalions in a single fighting zone.

Make Bloody Stand. Near Bobruisk, where Russian troops have made their bloodiest stand to hold the approaches to Moscow, two invading infantry battalions were utterly cut down, the Soviet command asserted, in the Dniestr. Thirty-five giant German tanks were reported destroyed in this engagement, and an unstated number of prisoners taken.

Far heavier prospective and actual German losses than in either of these areas were described, however, in the Mogilev-Podolsk theater of the western Ukraine, where the Germans still were trying to cross the River Dniestr.

Here, said the Soviet command without giving details, "the enemy is being wiped out, part by part." Red aviation reported the destruction on Monday of 58 German warplanes against Soviet losses of five planes.

Wife Hard on Shirts, Man Gets Divorce

Georgia's supreme court upheld yesterday a divorce won by Lillian R. Boone Jr., partially on the ground that his wife was too hard on his shirts.

Boone, former operator of the Lakemoore Club, said it was part of his job to dance with guests, but his wife, Mrs. Susan Brotherton Boone, was intensely jealous, would create scenes and start fights.

The climax came, Boone said, when he was dressing for a party and his wife tore four shirts from his back as fast as he could put them on.

Boone was granted a divorce in Fulton superior court and his wife was awarded $25 per month alimony. The Georgia supreme court affirmed the divorce, but gave the wife the right to sue for more alimony.

Bicyclist Hurt Seriously When Struck by Auto

Clarence Head Hit While on Way Home From Work.

Clarence W. Head, 43, of 788 East College avenue, near Decatur, was seriously injured yesterday morning when struck by an automobile while riding home from work on a bicycle.

He was still unconscious at Emory University hospital last night, and his condition was reported as "only fair."

Decatur city police arrested Selwyn Hollis, 31, of 28 Covington road, on charges of driving while drunk and leaving the scene of an accident. Hollis, a filling station employee, was not permitted to make bond pending changes in the condition of the injured man. Head was traveling east on East College avenue when the car going in the same direction struck him about 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

J. W. Fields Jr., of 12 High street, Hollis' companion, was being held as a material witness.

F. D. R. Favors Extending of Army Service

Portion of Selective Forces Needed for Longer Period.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today approved continuing a portion at least of the selective service army and National Guard in the active service beyond the year for which they were originally called to duty.

To muster all out at the end of that time, he said at a press conference, would result in impairing the efficiency of the nation's armed outposts in both the Atlantic and Pacific. But whether men not involved in the outposts should be released after a year, he did not say.

To that extent he thus approved the proposal of General George C. Marshall that the term of service be extended. A second Marshall proposal, that legal restrictions limiting the service of the draftees and National Guard to the Western Hemisphere and American possessions be removed, he thought of less importance. He had given up, he said, trying to determine where the hemispheric boundary line ran.

U. S. Forces In Iceland Get Gala Welcome

Elaborate Greeting Dinner Prepared, Commentator Broadcasts.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(UP)—The official landing and reception of United States' forces occupying Iceland occurred this morning, an NBC commentator said tonight in a broadcast from Reykjavik.

Although the convoy of American vessels arrived yesterday afternoon, and British officers visited American commanders aboard their ships, only a few members of the new American garrison went ashore last night.

Early today, however, the disembarkation began, and an elaborately prepared dinner of welcome was held, said the commentator, who identified himself as a British officer.

The officer said that the British forces were amazed at the quality and quantity of the equipment of the American force. He said that ships already were alongside quays, but that it would be many days before all of the equipment was ashore.

The broadcast was heard in this country over the Blue Network of National Broadcasting Company.

Asphalt Hearing Scheduled Today

Motion to dismiss the suit of the state of Georgia to recover $384,081 from Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans and associates in the emulsified asphalt business will be heard this morning in federal district court before Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

The action was brought by Attorney General Ellis Arnall, with the consent of Governor Tamm, against Dr. Evans, John W. Greer Jr., American Bituminous Company, Shell Oil Company, Inc., and Emulsified Asphalt Refining Company.

It was said that contention of the defendants is that a state is in the same position as the national government, a decision of the United States supreme court holding the United States is not a citizen and therefore cannot sue for triple damages under the Sherman anti-trust law.

POSTAL GAINS. ELLAVILLE, Ga., July 8.—There is an increase in the gross receipts at the Ellaville post office. Receipts for the year ending June 30, 1940, were $4,528.61, and for the year ending June 30, 1941, they were $5,030.70, a gain of $102.09.

POSTAL SAVINGS GAIN. ELLAVILLE, Ga., July 8.—A comparative statement in postal savings accounts in Schley county shows that on June 30, 1940, the amount due depositors was $12,969, while on June 30, 1941, the amount due depositors was $16,234, an increase of $3,265.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 9, 1941.

Let her sister-southern states weep for Georgia! Let them all resolve that the day of the demagogues who afflict our region from time to time will be ended shortly!

If soldiers of 30 can't keep up, perhaps the cub reporter is right when he speaks of "an aged pedestrian of 42."

The folding of the League of Nations begins to be felt by those who had expected to follow the war on the electric scoreboard in the Palace bar.

Dora was much surprised at Churchill calling the Duce a jackal. She thinks he is more like Mr. Hyde.

"Weep for Georgia"

Governor Talmadge, making a July 4th speech at Birmingham, Ala., said, among other things, that there are several newspapers in Georgia which "ought to be in hell."

Presumably he was referring to papers which do not always agree with his own policies or actions, among which The Constitution is one.

More important, however, in the light of subsequent events was Governor Talmadge's statement: "Here in Alabama you have newspapers that tell the truth."

Since the Governor voluntarily has announced that Alabama newspapers tell the truth the people of Georgia may be interested in the following editorial from the distinguished Montgomery Advertiser, of Montgomery, Ala., written the day after the Governor's speech in which he endorsed as truth statements by the newspapers of Alabama:

A NEIGHBOR'S TRAGEDY.

One sure earmark of the demagogue is an itch to meddle with institutions of higher learning. Another is a tendency to arouse ignoramus against professors.

There is a type of hard-bitten, bigoted southerner who is suspicious of learning, of scientific research, and of colleges in general. The demagogue delights in arousing this fellow, creating a lot of excitement, and thus distracting public attention from other issues—including the shortcomings of the demagogue.

Eugene Talmadge is playing this game.

The Georgia governor has been trying to put on a show at the expense of the State University System—and there are indications that patronage is at the bottom of his effort.

It seems that an embittered former teacher at the University of Georgia charged that the dean of the school of education there, Dr. Walter D. Cocking, had advocated the establishment of a school in which both Negroes and whites would be enrolled. Despite hearings and an investigation there has been no other evidence to support the charge.

But it was all that Talmadge was looking for. Now this blatherskite is starting a drive to run all of the "foreign" professors (those who are natives of any state other than Georgia) out of state colleges.

To the ignorant Georgian it is hot stuff to say, "We have enough competent, educated Christian young teachers in Georgia without jobs, who cannot get a place in a college in another university system. I will take this into consideration."

"I ain't saying what I'm going to do," says this great Georgian. "I'm going to look them over and those who have been bragging about the big salaries they could get elsewhere, I'm going to help them get those bigger salaries."

And of course it's easy to get an audience by dragging in the race issue. And it's convenient, too, since that issue beclouds all others.

"I'm not going to put up with social equality in this state as long as I'm governor," Talmadge says boldly. "They can't slip through no crack and they can't crop up in no funds coming to this state. We don't need no Negroes and white people taught together."

A few years ago "The Man" Bilbo set out on a crusade to put his own peanut-headed followers in every position of responsibility in Mississippi's colleges. It took a decade to rebuild what had been torn down.

Great teachers are rare. Whether they come from the south, the east, the north, or the west does not make a great deal of difference. The search for truth and the art of teaching know no geographical bounds. Unfortunately, teachers are not a match for demagogues. They are not willing to stoop to the wiles and tricks of appealing to ignorance and prejudice. Their appeal is to the intelligence, to the open mind, to the enlightened point of view. Perhaps they should be made of tougher stuff, but they are not.

Alabama is not perfect. It has had good governors and bad, but it has been this state's great good fortune not to have been saddled with an ignorant governor. Nor has it had one who did not respect learning, and realize to a degree at least that a people's only salvation is in a public school system based upon a constant search for truth.

Let her sister-southern states weep for Georgia! Let them all resolve that the day of the demagogues who afflict our region from time to time will be ended shortly!

If soldiers of 30 can't keep up, perhaps the cub reporter is right when he speaks of "an aged pedestrian of 42."

The folding of the League of Nations begins to be felt by those who had expected to follow the war on the electric scoreboard in the Palace bar.

War of Nerves

Sending of United States armed forces to take over, from the British, the garrisoning and defense of Iceland is, by far, the most important move yet made by this country in its program of hemisphere defense.

Reasons for the move are self-evident and its general significance is apparent at once. Iceland, strategically, is of primary importance to any power contemplating action inimical to the safety of this country. It provides an ideal jumping off place for attack against America. It shortens the distance from the continent of Europe by more than 1,000 miles.

That, if successful in overcoming Britain, the Nazis will try to conquer this country is known to everyone familiar with the history of the past few years and with the numerous statements from high Nazi officials, including Hitler, to that effect.

Coupled with the announcement by President Roosevelt that the United States Navy has been ordered to insure the safety of communications between this country and Iceland, as well as other outpost bases on the Atlantic, the move means that war supplies for Britain will undoubtedly enjoy the protection of American ships and American planes across the more than 2,000 miles from Halifax to Iceland, leaving only 700 further miles to Britain.

The Axis powers will undoubtedly regard this move as actual intervention in the war by the United States. They have, of course, considered us as a principal enemy for many months, even for years. But the taking over of the defense of Iceland, thus releasing some 50,000 or more British troops for use elsewhere, can only be interpreted in Berlin, Rome and Tokyo as active participation in the war by us.

Yet, beyond all these things, there is one effect of the move which may, in final analysis, prove more valuable than any of the others.

That is, the psychological effect it will have upon the German people and upon the Nazi chieftains alike. It is a magnificent move in the "war of nerves." It provides subject for extremely serious thinking by Hitler and his board of strategy at Berlin. It gives good ground for spreading the already present realization among the German people that, once again, they are doomed to certain defeat. That their national bombast and unscrupulous ambition is again to receive the answer it deserves, the answer of overwhelming force—which is, likewise, the only answer they can understand.

Ever since the beginning of the antagonism between this country and the Reich, President Roosevelt has, time after time, outplayed Hitler in the "war of nerves" which is so important a component of modern warfare.

But the President never played a more masterly stroke in that same war of nerves than when he ordered United States armed forces to assume the task of defending Iceland against the common foe. Shooting war will come when Hitler decides. But such moves as this in the war of nerves must be conducive of long hesitancy before ordering of that first salvo from the guns.

After the inscrutable sex had established a reputation for dressing more sensibly in summer than men do, it put on our pants.

Only the big stuff throws a scare into us now. It is months since we were frightened silly by a mouthwash ad.

Georgia Editors Say:

KEEP IT OUT (From The Elberton Star)

The Board of Regents is the head of education in Georgia, and on it depends the proper functioning of our schools and colleges. This is vital to the welfare of the state, and anything tending to interfere is most unfortunate.

Recently Governor Talmadge, who is an ex-officio member of the board, lost by a vote of 8 to 7 in his effort to oust a member of the University of Georgia faculty. Soon thereafter the Governor asked three members who were among the eight voting against his proposition to resign, and yesterday he stated that he would drive Communism out of our schools.

If there is any Communism in our schools or colleges we are with the Governor to drive it out. However, the shadow must not be mistaken for the substance, nor must it be another case of Hitler's fight against Russia to destroy Communism, which is but an excuse to cover his fight against England.

Georgia will appreciate the Governor's alertness and aggressiveness, but we sincerely hope this particular incident will not throw our great cause of education into politics.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

VALUE OF OPINION POLLS WASHINGTON, July 8.—While congress and the country generally have been floundering somewhat on the question of how far privately-conducted polls of public sentiment should be accepted as a guide in shaping the nation's foreign policy it has remained for a high ecclesiastic to define the issue more clearly, in the light of present world conditions, than has yet been heard in all the discussion turning on probabilities of our being drawn into the war.

Various public opinion polls on whether the United States should enter the war have been recurring incidents ever since the beginning of the European crisis. Several are in progress at the moment. Usually they seek an unequivocal "yes" or "no" answer to the simple position of whether you favor war.

President Roosevelt, who is as keenly alert to public sentiment as any occupant of the White House we have had in years, paid his respects to such polls recently. Discarding the results of one being taken by a strong isolationist New York newspaper, he said the question whether the United States should or shouldn't go to war was a good deal like asking a person whether he is for or against sin.

Naturally the vast majority of the people are against it—both sin and war, he said.

FREQUENTLY CITED

As unilluminating as the results may be, they nevertheless are being continuously cited by isolationists in an effort to show that the country is not prepared to back the President if he deems it necessary to lead the nation into war as a means of insuring our national security.

Now comes forward the Most Rev. Joseph P. Hurley, bishop of St. Augustine, with a bold rejoinder to the isolationist argument. With a clarity that rings true to changed world conditions he projects the thesis that, despite the constitutional prerogative of congress to declare war, the question of whether or when the United States should take up arms against Germany should be left to the President as commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy.

Picturing the country as confronted with a conflict between aid to the Allies and avoidance of war, he asks a question which deserves profound consideration under the circumstances: "Who shall decide?"

"Certainly not the people," Bishop Hurley answered, "for they have neither the experience nor the access to the facts, nor in many cases the understanding which are required." Submitting the question to them, he said, "would be a lumbering process involving fatal delay."

SOUND LOGIC

There is sound logic in his further observation that our problem is primarily a strategic one which "should be left to the commander-in-chief, who alone, in constant loyal communication with the congress and in consultation with his military and naval advisers, is capable of bringing us through the dangers which encompass us."

The antithesis of the bishop's new conception of war policy is found in a bill which congress almost passed a few years ago requiring a national referendum before a formal war declaration could be made. It was defeated by a narrow margin.

Since then declarations of war have been outmoded by Hitler's tactics of engaging in hostilities without warning. If his procedure was slightly revised in the Russian invasion, the declaration was made simultaneously with the attack, without an ultimatum or other demands being made upon the Russians in advance.

FACING THE STORM

Those who see logic in the bishop's words that "we must face the fact that we have already left the political and diplomatic zone, and have entered the zone of strategy," see a close analogy to the plight of passengers on a ship in a storm at sea. All no doubt would like to escape the perils of the storm. Some would like to turn back. Others, with no knowledge of navigation or seamanship, would like to tell the captain what to do.

But who would be more competent to steer the vessel on the right course, the passengers or the captain, a skilled navigator who was in possession of all the charts and technical information bearing on the situation?

There is only one answer, of course. Bishop Hurley is convinced that the same answer applies to the ship of state in our present emergency. It seems to make sense.

Riding in The Rain.

It was, really, no wonder we didn't see the stork—you could scarcely see it in front of your headlights in the rain.

The family had planned a visit to Toccoa last Sunday. There was a new nephew, scarcely a month old, there, who had yet to be inspected.

Sunday morning came and it was raining. You remember? We hesitated about the trip for several hours but, along about 11 o'clock, the sky seemed to be lightening, the rain had almost ceased and, to the north, where we were headed, there was even a glimpse or two of blue.

As far as Buford it rained, hard. We kept going, but engaged in a debate as to the advisability of turning back. At a little place just beyond the crossing with the old highway, in that settlement known as "Rest Haven," we parked, bought drinks and consumed the picnic lunch we had brought with us. Still with the idea of returning home from there.

However, while we ate, the sky again cleared somewhat and once again we decided to keep going northward.

It wasn't at all bad from there to Toccoa, though we did run into and out of a few more showers.

Spent a couple of hours at Toccoa. Inspected the new arrival with due praise and so forth and, about 4:30, started home again. It was pleasant until we reached that establishment known as the "Red, White and Blue," a short distance this side of Cornelia. Across the highway from Apple Pie ridge.

We stopped here, as is our custom, for apple cider and so forth. And the rain descended once more shortly after leaving that place.

Toccoa Is Booming.

By the way, Toccoa is one of those towns booming, partly because of the national defense program.

The Le Tourneau plant, of course, came there before the national war-aid effort got under way. But munitions contracts have added to the activity around that huge plant and it is working, top speed, most all the time.

Then the new Army camp, Camp Tombs, is just about ready for use. This is the camp originally intended as permanent summer camping quarters for the Georgia National Guard. Built by the WPA, chiefly, and folks up there say they thought it was never going to be finished. I wouldn't know, myself, but they say it has been four years in the building. Which seems slightly slow.

Now, of course, it will be used in the national Army building program.

There are other activities. They told me it is next to impossible to rent a place to live and that anyone with a house to rent can get almost any price for it.

A situation true all over the country, in the vicinity of defense industries or Army camps. Fortunately, in Toccoa as elsewhere, with a few exceptions, owners of homes to rent are not doing any excessive profiteering.

Toccoa is an old Georgia city, compared to some. But she has always been progressive. And today she is just beginning a substantial boom.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

"Georgia swept by storm; houses were washed away and crops badly damaged. Two deaths are reported."

And Fifty Years Ago.

Word Stories

Writing in the American Magazine on the subject, "Shall We Send Our Youth to War?" ex-President Herbert Hoover says: "Staying out is a matter of tactics and strategy almost as difficult as the strategy and tactics of war. And, if there is not the adamant will to stay out, no amount of law can keep us out." He then promulgates two essentials to peace in the United States in case of a general European conflict.

Promulgate.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Overlooked NEW YORK, June 8.—One of the problems of the defense, or rearmament, program which have been causing a slow, dull ache is that of providing house room for the toilers who are building the barracks and plants and further house room for citizens drawn into new communities or old ones to work in the factories when they are done. This need seems not to have been anticipated, nor the further need for schools for the children of workers attracted to new communities by patriotism and pay. There is a similar want of private quarters for the wives and children of officers serving in the Army posts and, again, of schools for the young ones who have followed their fathers into the firing line.

In other times when the railroads were being pushed through and towns were booming for one reason or another the men were less domestic, for they lived in bunk houses and converted box-cars and took their meals either in ping-pong buildings or tents not unlike those maintained in camps for the enlisted soldiers, but less clean, or in greasy-spoon restaurants which somehow followed the jobs. As to the problem of the officers' families when the officers were in the field under emergency conditions I am not informed exactly, but believe it was solved by leaving the loved ones at home, where they were not only out of the way but better accommodated.

Easiest Way

Herr Hitler and Comrade Stalin have met the difficulty efficiently by drafting civilian labor and ordering great battalions of men from place to place, as required, where they have been colonized under semimilitary conditions with the understanding that their home life is suspended until further notice. There is no doubt that it is easier to house and feed a force of stags on a temporary job than to provide suitable family quarters under a polite standard of living. And, of course, to improvise schools and homes for whole new communities, which may be there for only one or two years, not only runs up the bill but dislocates local life and politics.

We are very affectionate people now, by comparison with the days when men hit the road to follow the jobs, usually in the nonwinter months and, presumably, sent more or less of their money home by postal order. Some of them undoubtedly kept on going and never returned or, to the detriment of their morals, established little homes away from home and left no small litter of broken hearts and sad-eyed bairns to grow up wondering what their daddies looked like.

The Mexicans on construction jobs, as in their military life, carried their women and children, kettles and bedding with them, but the Irish and Italian immigrants who did so much of the spade work in the west, were mostly single-handed men who lived a tough, masculine life, saved something out of their pay, in general, we may suppose, finally gathered their families together and settled down permanently somewhere, with a little stake. Sometimes the camps were swept by malaria, and unboiled swamp water caused much sickness, and down along the Florida keys when the railroads was inching to Key West the white men from the north were massacred by mosquitoes and the place was blown away to sea where the floating barracks in which they lived were carried off by a storm.

Pay Bill Later

If it is that American men nowadays simply will not leave their family life, even to serve a year in the Army, then there is no other solution than to provide temporary homes for them now and pay the bill and face the consequences later, whatever they may be. Some of the men will not be staying on when the war industries close up, if ever they do, but will be drawn back to their original homes, leaving the factory towns with cold chimneys and ghost communities. Others will linger on, adding their number to the more or less fixed local population in the post-war slump. The housing, if it is well built, would seem to be an asset, but the mass migration of families into new surroundings in pursuit of jobs which, it is hoped, will be only temporary, certainly raises a question of where they are to go or what the breadwinners will find to do there when the row is over.

The little brides of young officers called to active duty are a special problem. They live off the reservation, and the young men have to find transportation to and from their work in the Army and wrangle nights off and fret about the contrast between the tacky accommodations rented in a high lo-lo market and the love hoppers, with breakfast nook, which they might have had back home.

War and the war industries are best conducted as stag enterprises, but the family unit is the basis of the society which we are preparing to defend, even though it prove too cumbersome for its own efficient defense.

tion the accent is on the second syllable (mul) which is like that in "mulberry." The first syllable (pro) is spoken the same as (pro) in "promote" and (gate) rhymes with "ate." In the second pronunciation the accent is changed to the first syllable (prom) and it is pronounced the same as (prom) in "promise." The sound of the remaining letters (ulgate) does not change from that of the first pronunciation.

Promulgate means to make public, to set forth clearly to others, to spread abroad openly.

Promulgate also means to announce formally or officially to the public; as: to promulgate a doctrine, a law, or a decree, or news. To promulgate a law is to put it into force by actual application.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

LETTER FROM CANADA An officer in a Canadian regiment writes: "You have been guessing about whether Hitler could or could not capture England."

"There was a time when it would have been simple. He could have come over after Dunkirk and walked in without much opposition. No one will ever know how badly England was depleted after that defeat. England was bled white of men and materials.

"The returning soldiers were exhausted. They brought back no equipment. The exact figures on one lost item is known. There were 30,000 trucks lost at Dunkirk. Imagine that many in a parking lot.

"Canada was stripped of her equipment. The soldiers' rifles were taken away. Even the old machineguns, used in practice, were sent to England.

"Your own country sent all the guns it could spare. You sent all the old French seventy-fives you had left over from the first war and also some of the old Browning machineguns of that era.

"England was flat, without guns, transport, ammunition or anything else. Hitler could have walked in without much loss of troops or material. England was, for a period of weeks, paralyzed, living in daily fear of an invasion they knew they could not stop.

"No one will ever know why Hitler did not strike. He had the barges, the planes, the victorious, eager army. He could have commanded the skies. He could have followed on the heels of the English soldiers evacuated from the foggy coast of Belgium and France and not been seriously opposed.

"I have just returned from England on my third convoy journey. If Russia can hold out for five or six months, the real danger will be over and the war will move toward an English victory."

That was the gist of his letter.

ONE FAILURE

Not until the war is done, and one may look at it from start to finish, will one be able to say where and when the errors were made.

Hitler did err in not invading England in the wake of the defeat at Dunkirk.

It may be that was his best chance.

It may be that his invasion of Russia was his fatal error. No one will know until the guns are silent.

He believed, undoubtedly, that England would sue for peace when France fell and her own broken army was brought back across the channel. He believed he could win without the invasion effort.

He may have believed that by invading Russia he would win the support of the ruling class in England and America. He patiently tried to make a holy war of it. He invoked divine aid on his venture. He obviously expected the Catholic Church to swing to his side once he attacked Communism.

He missed on each calculation.

The Pope did not give him any aid in the speech made from the Vatican a few days after the Russian war. Since that time distinguished Catholic prelates have denounced Hitler and the Catholic clergy in Germany have spoken out against him.

His mistakes begin to add up. To date none has been severe enough to halt him or injure him enough to be visible to the observing world. Mistakes have a habit of cutting from below. One does not know they have been made until the final one is made which brings on the collapse.

One may only hope. The Russian campaign is one of lies and propaganda. There is death and loss, but not until the tide definitely turns one way or the other will the real news be known.

THE PRESENT PICTURE

Nowhere is there a Nazi claim of having penetrated the Stalin line. The Stalin line was not built as was the Maginot line, but more like the Siegfried line built by Hitler. It is deep and consists of no one main defensive wall, but of many, many gun emplacements, pill-boxes, and so forth.

This is not at all the picture presented in Poland after 16 days. It is not the picture presented in France after 16 days. On that corresponding date the German armies were at the channel ports and Belgium was surrendering.

In Russia the Germans have not broken any defenses. They have just reached them.

After 16 days the Germans have not won a decisive victory. Unfortunately, neither the Russians nor the Germans tell the truth. Nevertheless, the fact remains that in the Russian claims of one million Germans killed and wounded, there must be some truth. The Germans cannot fill themselves at defended positions and escape without injury.

In France they never attacked the Maginot Line. They flanked it. The Maginot Line surrendered. It was taken without loss of life. The Russian defenses are not to be flanked. They must be pierced. In the piercing there will be much loss of life and much destruction of materials.

In the fury of that attack the Russians also will lose heavily.

Those who pray for the destruction of both Germany and Russia can see some progress being made.

His Own Guilty Youth Shouldn't

Keep Him From Trying To Save Junior

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

A reader has sent me a copy of one of my own editorials, printed in 1934, telling how munitions makers played both ends against the middle, disregarding principle and patriotism for the sake of profits; how Germany and France, in the last World War, helped one another by exchanging material through Switzerland, each providing what the other needed to continue the slaughter.

These and similar ugly facts were revealed in several books and in an authoritative article in Fortune magazine. To print them in 1934 was to serve humanity; to recall them now is to serve another purpose.

Propagandists use them—as others print pictures of American soldiers mutilated in 1918—to confuse and "soften" the minds of our people.

These propagandists do not urge all races to hate war and love peace; they only urge our people to love peace so another people can make war more successfully.

It is like urging one man to turn the other cheek so another man can get a better crack at him.

To confuse the issue now is to endanger America.

We are not dealing with a theory, but with an ugly fact. The past does not concern us, except as its lessons can be used to make us safer now.

No matter what evils the munitions makers were guilty of in the past, our own can't make weapons as fast as we need them now. And even though Americans long since dead robbed the Indians and conquered the territory of Mexico; even though earlier generations of Englishmen conquered much of the earth; even though English noblemen lord it over the lower classes; and even though German boys are as fine as any to be found; the fact remains that another brutal tyrant is trying to conquer and loot the world and nothing will stop him except a force greater and more destructive than his.

Though grandpa was a pirate, it is none the less prudent to co-operate with the police and lay in a few shotgun shells if bandits are looting the property of your neighbors.

Preserving a discretion about military detail that should recommend his correspondence course to Senator Burton K. Radiating good health—and who wouldn't that had been training with ski troops for months?—Rudisill wore the heavy woolen khaki of this snow service, but found it a bit unseasonable. His was a restricted choice, however, as he hadn't wanted to risk the average Talmadge supporter's gaze in kilts, and the only other recourse was shorts with a lion-

"There are quite a lot of Americans in the Canadian Army," he said. "Of course, it's all right now, since the President has okayed. But when we joined up we lost temporarily our American citizenship. I judge there are 50 in my outfit alone."

He traveled from Halifax, N. S., to New York, with two fellow "Canadians," one from Miami and the other from Oregon. He has an idea it won't be long before the Canadian Scottish go overseas, but he has little inclination to mention dates or places.

An anti-aircraftsman now, Rudisill once was in the Signal Corps of the United States Army, operated a crash truck at Clark Field, and hauled a rifle and bayonet around in Pampanga in the Philippines. He attended Emory in 1928-29. At another period he lived in Bimini. The call of the old home state is so strong he doesn't mind having to spend about half of his leave in arduous travel.

"I HAVE SOMETHING FOR YOU" THE GUMPS

Tracy Sees Kit's Return With Kirk, Shows Her Jealousy in Angry Scene

By Margaret Gorman Nichols. Author of "I'll Wait for You" and "Kiss After Midnight."

Kit Marshall leaves her Aunt Chris in Washington, D. C. to avoid her friends when she learns that her father, now dead, went to prison as an embezzler. After three months of job-hunting, she nervously accepts the position of social secretary to Tracy Field, young business who is constantly claiming the headlines. The salary is $100 a month and on leaving the employment agency Kit stops in a small restaurant to celebrate with a real meal. All her dishes are clean when a young man says smugly as he passes, "For a little girl you certainly have a big appetite." And somehow instead of being resentful, she wishes she knew him. When the Field chauffeur calls for her, she is worrying because of Jane Murrell's faint about her father, but such thoughts are routed by the occupant of the back seat, he is the man of the restaurant. He says he is Mike Saunders, newspaperman, that he has known Tracy Field for five years, and that he is going to her Connecticut place for a swim. Kit likes him at once. He joins Tracy and watches her cousin, Tony Merryman, and Kirk Griswold, a summer neighbor, play tennis, joshes her about Kirk's being her "latest."

INSTALLMENT VIII.

And it was the way he said it that made her linger, trembling in the warm night, and watch his return to the station wagon. She had only said, "Good night, Kirk, and thank you," meaning so much more, meaning all the tender, ardent thing she felt for him.

When she opened the door and went in, she did not glance in the direction of the drawing room though she heard the mingling of voices and music. She went upstairs to her own room, went to the closed windows and opened them. She had no one to tell. Aunt Chris wasn't here. She had no one to tell that this night had been touched with magic as no other night had ever been. This night... Would there be others? Oh, surely. When would she see him again? When would she see him again? When would she see him again? She did not sleep for a long time and she did not know what time Tracy sent for her. Kit quickly slipped into the printed house coat, ran a brush through her hair and went quickly down the long dark hall to Tracy's room. What could Tracy want of her at this late hour.

"Come in." It was a sharp command. Tracy, wearing a pale blue satin negligee, was standing by the window smoking a cigarette. She turned quickly and glared at Kit. "Mr. Griswold brought you home, didn't he? You were with him in New York, weren't you? Cocktails and dinner and dancing, no doubt. All very gay and stimulating and intimate. I dare say. But are you so ill-bred that you do not know that my help does not dine with my guests? I was in the garden when he brought you back."

Kit felt flames burst in her face. To be reminded that she was no better than a servant. Kit said, "Mr. Griswold is not a guest here. He is my neighbor. And my free time in this job is like free time in any job—it's mine to do with as I please as long as I conduct myself properly."

"Oh, you think so, do you? May I remind you that Mr. Griswold is a guest here frequently. You kept him from being a guest here tonight."

"I did nothing of the kind. I saw him in the station entirely by accident and he asked me to have dinner with him."

Tracy continued to glare angrily. Then she went to a small table and crushed the cigaret in a crystal tray. "Mr. Griswold was just being kind to you and you didn't have the tact to refuse. Women do refuse tactfully, you know. I know nothing about you you know. I took you in good faith. You have abused that faith tonight."

Kit was both angry and puzzled. Tracy was unreasonable and unfair. And she was jealous. Yes, that was it. She was jealous. It would have been funny if it had not been so serious—Tracy Field jealous of her. She thought, her heart sinking, "It's all over when it's just beginning. I'll have to leave."

Tracy pushed back her hair, the nervously untied and tied the satin belt of her negligee. Kit said, "Under the circumstances, there is only one thing I can do, though I haven't pleased your faith. I've done nothing wrong. I've done my best to please you. And I don't think that what I do with my free time should be questioned."

Tracy picked up another cigaret and lighted it, then sank wearily on the chaise longue. She looked desperately tired. "You should not have gone with Mr. Griswold today. It was a breach of good manners."

"That's a matter of opinion," Kit said. She turned to go. "No wait," Tracy leaned back, closing her eyes as if her head were throbbing. When she opened them, she said, "My dear, you are a very young girl. You are very unsophisticated. For your own good you should know that one does not accept dinner invitations from strange men."

The anger had gone from her voice. It was just a tired, throaty voice now, a voice made husky probably by too much smoking. "Men, to put it candidly, try you out—out of sheer curiosity. Sometimes they are kind to you out of sympathy..."

Sympathy! Had tonight—had Kirk been showing her sympathy tonight? Sympathy for a girl among strangers, a working girl surrounded by wealth, by leisure? Had Kirk known she had nowhere to go in New York and had very little money? Not known but suspected. Obviously Tracy saw the change in her face. For Tracy's own face seemed calmer and more confident. "You see, Kit, it was a mistake. You're too trusting. I'm not trying to belittle you. But—sometimes a girl like you will find herself falling in love with a man like—like Mr. Griswold, to whom she is only an attractive girl with whom to spend an evening when he doesn't have anything else to do. I'm not being cruel, only honest. And sometimes they try you out—to see how far you will go. Surely you could meet—"

"My social life here is my own responsibility," Kit said. "Of course, I'm sorry if I lost my temper. I'm beastly tired. And I don't know what's the matter with me. I'm always tired. You're doing beautifully here. You don't get in my way. Surely you aren't going to leave when I need you. I'm planning rather a big party in two weeks and there's lots to be done."

The impatient motion of her hand waved Kit away. "Not be a good girl and go to bed and won't talk any more about what happened tonight. It was just unfortunate."

Kit regarded her with glistening eyes. "Wasn't it?" she said in a lifeless voice.

Walking down the long, dark hall, Kit felt as if some insidious poison had been injected into her.

From beauty to ugliness—and so soon! What an idealistic little idiot she had been! How quaint she must have seemed to Kirk—who had nothing better to do this evening! Tracy's words came back to her—with all their ugly implications.

Going into her room, she closed the door and leaned against it, thinking, "Is this my first lesson? Tracy is right. She knows more about these things than I do. Must I learn not to trust other people, not to trust my own heart? Is that what Aunt Chris meant when she wrote about 'value'?"

Kit awoke early in the sunny room. And she awoke with last night so clear in her mind that she decided to go to the pool for a swim and not think about it. The house was quiet. Tracy and her guests would not be about for hours.

In the bathroom she found a black satin bathing suit her size and a light white rubber cap. When she came out, she found Mrs. McIntyre in a broad-brimmed hat with a huge basket of flowers under her arm.

"Good morning, Miss Marshall. How do some people sleep on a morning like this? Some little time ago I saw Mr. Griswold out riding. I think he was hoping someone over here would be up and out too. Well, I've got to get the flowers arranged in the house. Now don't get too sunburned. Take care."

Kirk was riding, Kit thought as she walked to the pool. Kirk was hoping that someone in the house was up and out. Tracy? Who else? She thought, "I don't suppose I'll ever know if being an experiment to him one evening was a success or a failure. Why didn't he kiss me, I wonder. And why don't I forget the whole thing and check it off as one of my unsuccessful experiments? I wish I could—but it's like a mirage that keeps coming up before me."

The cold water was invigorating. She swam back and forth several times before she climbed up on the side of the pool and freed her hair from the tight cap. "Good morning, Swell morning," someone said.

It was Tommy Merryman, lean and brown in dark swimming trunks, who sat down beside her. He stretched out full length, cushioned his head with his arms, and looked up at the early sun. "Most people lose the best part of the day sleeping," he said.

Kit smiled and said, "Only the milkman sees the dawn."

Tony looked at her. "Have you ever known a milkman?"

"Yes. Not very well, but our milkman in Washington has served us for many years. He has a wife, a mother, and three children."

"He supports them all on the salary of a milkman?"

She nodded. "It can be done. He's a jolly man. Big and healthy and well fed, and crazy about his family."

As Tony glanced away, his dark fine brows came together. "It can be done. Um. Nice going. The simple life. People are always talking about going back to it but they never do. It just sounds good. And today, when people are talking about making sacrifices for defense and all that sort of thing—that's just more talk. Take something from them and they'd."

"You're bitter."

"Wouldn't you be if you were 12?"

Kit said carefully, "I don't know you that well."

Writer Tells Why Lindbergh Is Confused

Trying To Follow Hitler Ideology Blamed by Writer.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

"I would rather," said the inefable Mr. Lindbergh, "see my country ally herself with England, or even with Germany, with all her faults, than with the cruelty, the Godlessness and the barbarism that exist in Soviet Russia."

I have seldom read more insincere words. What Mr. Lindbergh would "rather" see us do he made very clear way back last summer. He would "rather" see us make a nonaggression pact with a victorious Germany. What he advocated in Chicago last summer was that we recognize the fact that Germany was going to win the war, and then make a treaty with the Nazis. He said that, without such a treaty "with the dominant power of Europe," there would be no possibility of peace.

Now, what it would be interesting to hear from Mr. Lindbergh is whether, after the attack on Russia, he still thinks that a treaty with Hitler is a treaty. It is very curious that no word of condemnation of Russia passed Mr. Lindbergh's lips as long as Russia was, in effect, an ally of Germany. On the contrary, Mrs. Lindbergh assured us that both Communism and Nazism were "waves of the future."

Wholeheartedly and wholeheartedly, both Lindberghs swallowed the then official Nazi version that this war was against British imperialism, and that the future lay with the "socialist" states. Nor did Godlessness bother either of them.

Mrs. Lindbergh, in her book, put Christianity and capitalism in the same paragraph as two things she was no longer quite sure about. "The longer this war in Europe continues, the more confused the issues become," said Mr. Lindbergh.

The issues are confusing to Mr. Lindbergh because he has been following the Nazi party line in interpreting the war. That certainly makes things confusing. Because Hitler's war was first to free and unite Germans, then against a bolshevism, then against plutocracy, then against the British conception of the gentleman, then against the division of Europe and the destruction of its unity, then for "freeing" such little states as Slovakia and Croatia, and now against everything. Hitler has fought for nationalism and against nationalism, for socialism and against socialism, for Europe and against Europe.

But the British viewpoint has not been in the least confusing. Neville Chamberlain stated it at the outbreak of the war. "If I should think that one man wished to dominate the world, I should think he would have to be stopped."

Nobody is fighting Nazism as a philosophy of life for Germany. If the Germans like it, why it's okay with the rest of us. What the world has been fighting has been Nazism's aggressions against the world. The world did not go to war against Communism because Stalin kept his armies at home. He kept them home, that is to say, until Hitler began moving his.

War for Democracy.

This is a war for democracy only insofar as democracy recognizes the rights of peoples to freedom and independence, and to use their labor and the soil on which they live for building up their own lives. Were the Russian government three times as bad as it is, Hitler would not be justified in conquering Russia. Were the German government even worse than it is, nobody would be justified in attacking Germany and trying to enslave her people. Nobody did attack Germany. Germany attacked others. The war is to stop her from doing so.

That's the issue. And there is nothing confusing about it. It is not confusing that Hitler should attack rich, middle-class democracies like Holland, or poor authoritarian states like Greece, or weak constitutional monarchies like Yugoslavia, or powerful empires like France and Britain, or the Soviet Union.

Hitler is not waging a war for an ideology. He is waging an ideology for a war. He does not let his ideology determine his policy. His policy determines his ideology. He is neither crusading against money nor against Bolshevism. He is crusading for money, resources and power and against everybody. He doesn't pick his victims because of their ideas, but because of their strategic positions and their resources.

STAMPS FOR BONDS—Georgia's first fraternal organization responded yesterday to the Defense Bonds and Stamps Drive when members of the Atlanta Unit of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, Maple Grove No. 86, turned up at the Federal Reserve Bank and served notice on officials they were purchasing stamps that would be later redeemed for a large Bond bearing the organization's name. Left to right, Marion Allen, state administrator Defense Bonds and Stamps; S. P. Schuessler, assistant vice president, Federal Reserve Bank; Mrs. Gladys C. Joyner, president of the circle; Mrs. Louise Baumgras, treasurer, and Mrs. May Ola Odum, advisor.

The world, as Mr. Lindbergh ought to know, is round. If Hitler moves far enough east he ends up on the frontier of Alaska where Russia now is, and if he moves far enough west he ends up in the Portuguese islands, which are the nearest points in the Atlantic to South America.

Since Russia stands in the way of one course, and Britain in the way of the other, we are pro-Russian and pro-British in this struggle. Because we simply do not wish to see Nazi Germany dominate the world. Also, we would not like to see Britain or Russia dominate the world. Mr. Lindbergh, but we do not happen to think that either eventuality is likely.

German Invention. As for the ideology of Communism that you so suddenly detest, it is a German invention, Mr. Lindbergh. Both of these totalitarian conceptions originated in German philosophy, and they are much more alike than they are different. Also, the Bolshevik revolution in Russia was aided and abetted by the German general staff, for the same reason that Hitler has aided and abetted revolutions in the democracies: namely to weaken the victim.

Lenin and 23 Bolsheviks were sent in a sealed car through Germany to Russia for the purpose of getting Russia out of the last war, and some of the same staff officers who helped them get there are now engaged in fighting Russia to overthrow the regime they started.

Nothing is at all complicated, Mr. Lindbergh, except if you are trying to keep up with Dr. Goebbels. Then you are likely to meet yourself in the doorway coming out.

But on our side there is nothing confusing at all. We are against one man's and one nation's dominating the world, and we think that, if he dominates Europe, Asia, and Africa, the United States will be on the spot. We, whom you call "interventionists," are strongly in favor of blocking him before he gets to the Portuguese islands and before he gets to the gates of Alaska.

We think that if he gets to the Portuguese island and to the gates of Alaska the "treaty" you recommend will have the value that all treaties have when negotiated at the point of a gun, plus the value that any treaty has when negotiated with Hitler.

7 Atlantans Join Navy This Week

Seven Atlanta young men were among 13 Georgians who enlisted in the Navy this week through the Atlanta recruiting office, it was announced yesterday. The Atlantans were Kermit H. Bell, of 31 Fourth street, N. W.; George Phillips, of 1111 St. Augustine place; Paul Young, of 582 Brownwood avenue, S. E.; Robert H. Reese, of 1491 Westwood avenue; Robert E. Murray, of 50 Alamo avenue, N. W.; Jack McCray Mitchell, of 487 Wabash avenue, and Jesse G. Smith, of Route No. 8. The others were J. C. Wade, of Marietta; Charles D. Teagle, of Decatur; Fred C. Elser, of Austell; Thomas C. Gordon, of Fairburn; John W. Harrell, of Lithia Springs, and James R. Akins, of Rockmart.

Porter Designated As One-Way Street

Atlanta motorists seeking to enter Ivy street, the principal one-way thoroughfare south will not be forced to fight traffic on Porter place from West Peachtree to Peachtree after today.

Mayor LeCraw yesterday approved an ordinance making Porter place one-way for east-bound traffic from West Peachtree into Peachtree, which means that cars may proceed without interruption from Peachtree into Ivy and thence southward.

Scott street from West Peachtree place to Hunnicutt street was also made a one-way thoroughfare for north-bound traffic and the mayor approved it.

RAF Blasts Big Oil Plant Near Bethune

Germans' New Floating Defense Fails To Halt Raids.

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—British bombers by the hundreds flew deep into northern France today in an onslaught almost without let-up for more than 24 hours—undeterred by new floating anti-aircraft batteries stationed by the Nazis in the English channel.

The air ministry said heavy bombers with fighter escorts scored hits across the synthetic oil plant between Bethune and Lens, in the Lille area, leaving the refinery in flames. Nine German fighters were destroyed in the sweep, and seven British fighters and one bomber were lost, authorities said. Later it was added heavy bombers raided the German naval base at Wilhelmshaven.

The Luftwaffe stabbed back at the south English coast during the daylight hours, following up a sharp attack on Southampton over Monday night.

It was acknowledged that the night attack on Southampton did considerable damage and killed and wounded a number of persons.

A bomber force officially described as in "large numbers" raided numerous west German targets overnight, a communique announced, and subsequent pilots' reports said bright trails of flame were left in five industrial cities.

The main objectives were Cologne, Osnabruck, Frankfurt, Munchen-Gladbach and Munster. Warehouses were seen to collapse and the main railroad station was hit at Munster; railway tracks were ripped up and locomotive sheds and freight cars fired at Osnabruck, the air ministry related. The fires started on both banks of the river at Cologne were described as innumerable, and the raiders left a pall of smoke over the city, the official account said.

Nine night RAF bombers were acknowledged lost.

(German "box-score" on the last 24 hours of western front air fighting: British planes lost, 26—15 Monday night, 11 Tuesday).

NUTRITION CHAIRMAN. VALDOSTA, Ga., July 8.—Miss Audrey Morgan, Lowndes county economics agent, has been named general chairman of the Lowndes county committee for the advancement of nutrition. Attention to proper nutrition has been aroused recently by the large percentage of selectees turned down because of malnutrition.

French Reject Another British Truce Offer

Allied Drive on Beirut Said Hurdled Back by Defenders.

BEIRUT, Syria, July 8.—(AP)—French defenses of Beirut were reported tonight to have rejected a new British offer of an armistice in the month-old Syrian war and to have thrown back British troops by counterattacks south of the city.

The Vichy governor of the mandate, General Henri Dentz, was said to have shown his determination to fight to the end of ordering general mobilization of all Frenchmen in Syria between 19 and 45.

Planes supported French troops in their counterattacks against the Australians in the Damour area, nine miles south of Beirut. British cavalry and Australian infantry were declared to have suffered heavy losses.

(The British Middle East command reported that it was mopping up in behind Australian lines south of Beirut and said British forces were advancing on all Syrian fronts.)

(British radio advices said a new "sticky bomb" which clings to the side of a tank and then explodes, was being used against the French.)

British bombers made new attacks on Beirut and Aleppo, causing casualties among the civilian population, Beirut advices stated.

Catherine Tift Chosen Queen Of St. Simons Oleander Ball

By SALLY FORTH.

WHEN THE SUPREME MOMENT of the Oleander ball at St. Simons arrived on Monday evening, it was Atlanta's lovely Catherine Tift who walked away with the honors! Wearing a diaphanous gown of mist blue chiffon which was particularly becoming to her blond coloring, Catherine was escorted to the throne by Brunswick's knight, J. Hunter Hopkins, who placed a garland of oleanders upon her pretty head, presented her a golden scepter, and pronounced her the "Oleander Queen"—the first ever to be selected.

As you doubtless know, the new King and Prince hotel at St. Simons planned and staged the ball, for the very good reason that oleanders spell enchantment—the enchantment of the Golden Isles. Contestants and their escorts were entertained at a banquet in the colorful patio of the hotel immediately preceding the ball. The throne, of course, was a bower of fragrant oleander blossoms, and there Catherine reigned throughout the rest of the evening, at the end of which she was presented a handsome loving cup as a memento of the tribute paid her beauty and charm.

The only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tift and one of the most popular and beloved members of Atlanta society, she won the coveted honor over a field of 24 contestants. Her candidacy was sponsored by the Frederica Yacht Club, the other contestants including Della Lane, Frances Davenport, Felder Owens, Emily Brannen, Pat Compton, Fannie Phillips, Virginia Trobaugh, Helen Blanton, Janice Leavy Johnson, Lynnette Browne, Mary Jane Everett, Norris Wright, Doris Shelander, Jone Mercer, Betty Blasingame, Harriet Edwards, Joan Lewis, Marianne Royall, Mary Elizabeth Bivens, Sara Louise Abbott, Nancy Collier and Kay Young.

LATE NEWS of Atlantans vacationing at the seashore concerns Mr. and Mrs. John L. Conner and their son, Frank, who are occupying their cottage on North Atlantic at Daytona Beach for two months. They had as their guest over Independence Day weekend Lieutenant Dick LaRoque, who is stationed with the Observation Squadron at Jacksonville. Dick, who is the son of Colonel and Mrs. Oscar LaRoque, of Winston-Salem, N. C., flew down in his own plane. He and Frank were joined for the weekend by Stuart Broeman Jr., who is vacationing at the Broeman beach cottage at Ponte Vedra, and the trio celebrated the Fourth together.

The Conners have recently enjoyed cruising aboard the Carolina, the 77-foot yacht belonging to their close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goss, of Waterbury, Conn. The Carolina is tied up at the Daytona Beach Yacht Club for several months, and Frank and Bob Goss Jr. are seen daily pointing their nose out from the two boys find much in common these days, for they will be classmates at Yale next year. Frank, you know, finished at Marist in June, and he and Bob look forward to continuing their friendship when school opens in the fall.

A FOURSOME of popular Atlanta sub-debutantes at Camp Chattahoochee, Tallulah Falls, includes Betty and Marion Ford, daughters of Lieutenant Colonel C. W. Ford; Marguerite Fancher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Fancher, and Ann Joiner, daughter of Mrs. Edward Joiner. And, as usual, the Atlantans are in the fore in all branches of camp activities.

Betty, for instance, has almost completed her first puppet under the direction of Ann Westfield, of Pennsylvania, professional puppeteer and former pupil of Tony Sarg. Each year the girls put on a performance, using the puppets they have made at camp, satirizing the foibles of counselors and campers. It is so amusing that everyone anticipates it as one of the highlights of the season.

Ann is playing an important part in the dance group under the direction of Maybeth Carithers, of Athens, former pupil of Martha Graham in New York. Ann is also one of the group of older girls in the rifle class, in which the girls take great satisfaction in shooting for high scores.

Marguerite is one of the most enthusiastic tennis players, and has already improved markedly with the help of Marion Ford, elder sister of Betty, and an as-

Mr. and Mrs. Culbreath Fete Bridal Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Culbreath entertained at dinner last evening in compliment to Miss Dorothy Hart and Wilbur Morris, whose marriage takes place on Friday evening.

Dinner was served on the terrace at Peacock Alley. Decorations featured a pink and white color motif, and the only illumination was by candlelight.

Covers were placed for the honor guests, Miss Frances Westmoreland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferrell, Carl Aycock and the hosts.

Chicken Dinner.

The veterans of the Soldiers' Home and other Confederate veterans will be honored at a chicken dinner on Friday between 11:30 and 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. D. Langley on Wade avenue under the auspices of Camp Evan P. Howell. A group of well-known artists will present a musical program during the morning.

Miss Jacqueline Thiesen, left, and her attractive visitor, Miss Adelaide Hill, of New York City, paused for the photograph en route to the swimming party given by Miss Frances Longino yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club honoring Miss Hill. Miss Thiesen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Thiesen, and Miss Hill, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Hill, of Atlanta and New York, are classmates at Gunston Hall in Washington. Numerous social affairs are planned in compliment to Miss Hill during her stay, among which is the luncheon given today by Mrs. Frank Farley at the Driving Club.

Miss Rosa Henslee Marries Mr. Humphries in West Point

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 8.—The marriage of Miss Rosa Henslee, of LaGrange and West Point, and Frank Leon Humphries, of West Point, was solemnized Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Williams here, with Dr. Willis E. Howard, of LaGrange, officiating.

Palms, ferns, baskets filled with white gladioli and altar tapers formed the background for the bridal group, the tapers being lighted by Miss Katherine Williams, niece of the bride. Mrs. A. D. Ferguson, of West Point, pianist, and Miss Dora Anna Gay, of LaGrange, soloist, presented the music.

The bride's petite brunette beauty was enhanced by a modish costume of beige sheer which was worn with an off-the-face hat in beige felt trimmed with a brown veil. Her accessories were in beige and copper and her flowers were Talisman roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Williams entertained at an informal reception, with Miss Louella Sturdivant and Miss Edna Taylor assisting in serving.

Later in the afternoon the bride and groom left for a motor trip through North Carolina and Virginia and upon their return will be home with Rev. and Mrs. George L. King, in LaGrange.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. B. F. Henslee, now of West Point, and the late B. F. Henslee, of Thomson. Her maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Walton, of Richmond county, and her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Henslee, of North Carolina. She is the sister of Mrs. Kate C. Matthews, of Rome; Mrs. E. S. Williams, of West Point; W. S. Henslee, of Atlanta; L. H. Henslee, of Lincoln, and J. W. Henslee, of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

The bride was graduated from the Thomson High school and Gordon Institute at Barnesville, where she was a member of the Utopian social club.

Mr. Humphries is the son of Mrs. W. H. Humphries and the late Mr. Humphries, of Big Springs. His maternal grandparents are Mrs. W. T. Woodruff and the late Mr. Woodruff, of Meriwether county. His paternal grandparents were the Mr. and Mrs. Jim Humphries, also of Meriwether county. His sisters are Miss Claire Humphries, of Big Springs, and Mrs. Rendor Garret, of Opelika, Ala.; J. I. Humphries and H. C. Humphries, of Columbus. He was graduated from Rosemont High school and now holds a position with the Rhodes-Perdue Company in West Point.

Miss Dinwiddie Fetes Miss Jones

Among additional parties planned for Miss Florence Jones, bride-elect, is the bridge party to be given Friday afternoon by Miss Marion Dinwiddie who entertains at her home on Twenty-sixth street.

Mrs. Carroll Payne Jones, and Mrs. Winfield Marshall Jones will also entertain for Miss Jones, the dates to be announced later.

Miss Jones will marry Hugh Lester on August 15, their engagement having been announced recently.

Norville-Forhand.

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., July 8. Announcement is made of the marriage on June 30 of Miss Peggy McRae Norville, of Watkinsonville, and J. B. Forhand, of Lilly.

Mrs. Forhand is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. S. Norville, and Mr. Forhand is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Forhand. Both are students at the University of Georgia summer school. They will reside in Lilly after July 20.

Make-up for swimming and sports should be natural, but not a fade-out! If the make-up you use is waterproof you can be sure it will last throughout your swim. Anne Sheridan, sun-bathing on the edge of her pool, wears charmingly natural make-up.

Waterproof Make-Up Saves Your Face

A-swimming you will go, and off will come your make-up, unless you're a foresighted miss. Should you happen to be such a one you will have invested in a bit of waterproof make-up so that your departure from the pool will be as pretty as your entrance.

It isn't particularly good for your ego to approach the pool's edge beautifully groomed, only to emerge from your first dip as devoid of glamor as when you wake up in the morning. Worse still will be your rating if your mascara or lipstick fade on your face!

By Winifred Ware.

Your problems will be solved by a line of waterproof make-up put out by a well-known cosmetic authority. There's a lipstick, mascara and either cream or liquid make-up base. Till now I had thought we had to omit make-up bases when swimming. Goodness knows we need them as much then as at any other time, for bright sunlight makes complexion defects even more obvious. If your skin is oily you'll like the liquid base, if it's dry or flaky the cream base, if it's dry or flaky the cream base.

like the cream one. Both come in light and dark shades to suit your coloring.

No worry about your mascara dripping if you have a tube of this in black or brown. It comes complete with brush in a convenient cellophane tube. A discreet touch of mascara will help considerably in counteracting the severity of a bathing cap, too. Ever try it? Everybody will be interested in the lipstick, whether they use other make-up when swimming, or not, for that's one thing you can't omit. It comes in glowing light and dark shades, blended to flatter summer coloring. It's smooth and easy to apply.

You'll find you'll be using this make-up for plenty of occasions other than swimming. It's a boon to any who like active sports where perspiration may wreck makeup. The tennis or badminton game, the bicycle ride, the golf game, all will give you more enjoyment if you feel that your makeup is on to stay.

I'll be glad to give you more information about this waterproof make-up. Just call me at Walnut 6565 or write me in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Gay, Young Frock in Crisp Cotton

By Lillian Mae.

Summer's the time to be young and gay—and here's the frock to make you look that way. Pattern 4797 by Lillian Mae. Make it up in a fresh, crisp cotton; speed your stitches with the wonderful Sewing Instructor. The square neck with its "picture frame" yoke is very becoming, and that trim waistband gives you a slim and willowy midriff. There's one smart panel down the front skirt for nice lines. No side placket is needed, for a slide fastening or a buttoning goes far down the back. Choose between a cool, open lap-over sleeve and a straight and simple style. For extra color you might let the yoke, and perhaps the waistband, too, be of bright contrast. Tatting or ric-rac is optional.

Pattern 4797 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Sizes 16 takes 3 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Fresh Fruit Tarts Are Real Company Fare

By Sally Saver.

Tarts have always been considered company fare or special family treats, for they're so appetite-tempting in appearance as well as flavor. There's no need to save them for occasions, though, when cookery tricks can produce delicious tarts in a jiffy.

A tart shell recipe for moderns which is easily made and delectable in flavor combines corn flakes, marshmallows, butter and vanilla. Fashioned in tart shell pans or muffin pans these crisp confections are a perfect background for fresh fruits, for berries, for ice cream, for unusually delicious sundaes. Pressed in flat pans this same mixture can be cut in squares and served just so, or used for ice cream sandwiches.

Corn Flake Marshmallow Tart Shells.

1-3 cup butter.
48 marshmallows.
1-2 teaspoon vanilla.
1 package corn flakes.

Melt butter and marshmallows in double boiler. Add vanilla; beat thoroughly to blend. Put corn flakes in large buttered bowl and pour on marshmallow mixture, stirring briskly. Press mixture into buttered tart pans or large muffin pans to form tart shells. Fill with fresh fruit or ice cream and garnish if desired. Yields 16 tart shells, three inches in diameter.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP.

The way to get on with men, says a notable success in this respect, is to think what you like, disagree silently if you like, but never argue with them.

Ice cream in a cornflake, marshmallow tart shell makes a dessert treat.

MY DAY: English Women Thank Us for Seed

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Monday.—I find that there is a lack of realization that the aluminum which you and I are collecting must be held and not turned in until the date which has been set, July 21. Trying to turn it in now is a bad plan, apparently, for some patriotic housekeepers have been used by some junk dealers, who found it very pleasant to collect aluminum and make some money out of it.

So you and I may prepare by obtaining our new pots and pans in some substitute ware for our aluminum utensils. We must not turn the aluminum in until some person officially designated to receive it is announced by Mayor LaGuardia.

It began to rain yesterday afternoon, but in spite of that and heavy traffic, three of us managed to make our way up to Mrs. George Huntington's for a very pleasant evening. I was presented with three beautifully colored postcards of the grounds and cottages, which Mrs. Huntington's maid and chauffeur had colored with infinite care.

Today we are off for New York City, and it will be a busy day. I shall have to tell you more about it tomorrow, for I only know that I am to be on the steps of the city hall at 11 o'clock. From there on the mayor and I participate in functions together for about an hour and a half.

I keep receiving letters from people who head the women's institutes in England, an organization which is comparable to our home bureaus, and which is affiliated with them internationally. The letters tell me what the seeds we sent have meant to them.

Yesterday I received a letter from a woman with whom I went to school in England and who lives on the coast there. I quote part of her letter:

"It is splendid to feel that your great country realizes so fully what we are up against and there is a lovely feeling of kinship with all the peoples who are banded together to overcome this embodiment of evil. Indeed this is a righteous war and a crusade to save those who are oppressed. We are all sacrificing everything gladly for the sake of freedom and to save goodness, kindness and self-respect. Life here is curious, such an odd sense and a realization of the impermanence of all material things and possessions. One sows seeds, on plants and cultivates with a detached feeling, wondering subconsciously whether one will be there to reap the crops or whether their progress will be hastened by a bomb."

I can hardly realize that the little girl I remember could have written this letter, but it is one worth our considering. Impermanence for certain things is not so bad if we can count on permanence in our real values.

A Hospital Romance Needs a Test

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I have just returned to my home after a long siege in the hospital. I was sick long enough to fall in love with my nurse, and now that I am home I realize that I want to marry her more than any girl I have ever met. My mind was perfectly clear while I was in the hospital, so the love affair was not one which can be credited to delirium. The nurse was nice to me and I seemed to take unusual interest in me, but when I left the hospital and told her that I would be back and some day prove to her how much she meant to me, she seemed to take what I said for granted. She did not seem surprised and only patted me on the arm and told me what a fine patient I had been. She did not exactly laugh at me, but she did not seem to believe me. What can I do to make her believe me?

SICK MAN.

Yours is an old, old story of a patient falling in love with his nurse, and only time and absence will have to prove to her that you mean business.

will have to prove to her that you mean business.

GIRL MUST MANIFEST SOME INTEREST

Dear Dixie:

I have got to keep this boy interested and I want you to tell me what to do. This is the situation. I have been going with him nearly a year. He is three years my senior. We go around with the crowd and neither of us is in love; he does not like parties or crowds; he does not dance, but likes a number of sports which appeal to me also. He is very nice and lots of fun. He is like one of the family, having known them all for about five years; everyone who knows him likes him. I am a good conversationalist and like to do everything he likes. I have tried to keep him interested, but I have tried not to let him know how much I really like him. Now he is going away and he seems to have either become tired or bored with me. I cannot tell. What must I do?

A READER.

Perhaps you had better let him know now just how much you think of him. Maybe he has become indifferent to you because he thinks that you do not like him very much. Everyone likes to feel that someone really likes him or her, and it may be possible that he thinks you have taken him a little bit too much for granted. You admit that you have tried not to let him see how much you like him, so maybe that is the clue to the present situation. Since he is going away, you must evidence some interest and feeling and let him know how lost you are going to be without him. Of course, if he continues to be bored and indifferent toward you, I don't think I would make it so obvious that you like him. You will have to be a bit subtle about the whole affair.

Stamped, Addressed Envelopes Favors an Answer by Mail

By Dr. William Brady.

Naturally, I suppose, few readers of this wretched stuff pay any attention to the paragraph of instructions to correspondents, and apparently few correspondents take the instructions seriously. Little they reck what store the conductor sets on the properly stamped and addressed envelope each correspondent is required to provide if the correspondent expects an answer by mail.

Even though most queries received from readers are answered with pamphlets, it is still a task which demands constant thought and care to keep on hand adequate supplies of up-to-date material on several hundred different subjects. And there is only one thing I dislike, and that is receiving in a letter a clipping from my own column, in lieu of the writer's simple request for or mention of the thing he wants.

Then when the mail, which carries these remain a lot of letters, which call for some sort of personal answer. Not if I insist on strict compliance with the rules, for somehow I feel bound to write to many correspondents despite the fact that they really ask for diagnosis or treatment of their ailments and the rules expressly state that letters shall not pertain to diagnosis or treatment. However, a good bit of the time I'd like to devote to this portion of the daily mail is usurped by writers of pump-handle letters—and it is astonishing how many readers of apparently high I. Q. write such letters. For example, here is one which is flawless:

Dear Sir:

I have read your column for many years and feel that I have profited thereby.

It seems to me that I have noted many times a paragraph stating that if a person wanted a personal reply one should include a three-cent stamped addressed envelope.

I wrote you a lengthy letter, enclosed a stamped addressed envelope, as requested, and several days later received a monograph on wheat and wheat germ but no personal reply to my query. Now I am angry. Maybe you thought my letter not worthy of a reply, but it was a real problem to me. It was long, I admit, but that was necessary to explain the situation to you clearly.

I want you to know that I am not satisfied with the way my query was treated. Maybe the letter never reached you at all—that is my assumption.

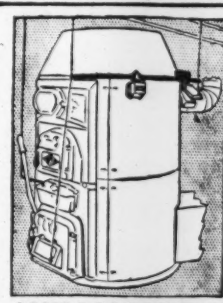

Very truly yours,

Had the correspondent mentioned in this letter what she wanted I might have been able to reply satisfactorily. But the time it takes to write her, asking her to mention that or to repeat the question or questions I failed to answer before, is wasted, and nobody has a right to waste time. That time might be used to far better advantage to answer such questions as one can.

By the way, including a stamped self-addressed envelope does not insure an answer; it merely facilitates one when I think an answer may be of any use to the correspondent.

"The other morning I woke up with a cold. My nose was running—my eyes were running—and everything seemed to be running but my bowels. Right then Mama figured I was temporarily constipated, which made me feel worse. She gave me TEEHINA because Mama says TEEHINA is the nicest kind of laxative for little fellows like me. It cleaned my bowels and I feel better now. I want to thank my drug store for always keeping a big supply of TEEHINA on hand. TEEHINA is only five cents a box—nice-tasting powder." Give TEEHINA according to the directions in each package and write TEEHINA, Columbus, Ga., for a free baby booklet.

Can a Married Woman Ever Feel Certain?

Many married women take unnecessary risks with their nerves, health, happiness. Why? Generally because feminine hygiene is considered too personal to be discussed. And so many women use douches of over-strength solutions of acids which can actually burn or scar delicate tissues. Today such risks are needless. For science has given womankind Zonite. Non-poisonous, non-caustic, yet kills germs, bacteria, contact. Actually destroys undesirable odors. Protects against vaginitis. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. Free Booklet Tells Intimate Facts. Get this frankly written booklet, "Feminine Hygiene Today"—FREE, sent to you postpaid in plain wrapper. ## Miss Shipp Weds In Greenville, Ga.

GREENVILLE, Ga., July 8.—The marriage of Miss Mary Kathleen Shipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Shipp Sr., and Everette McClellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. McClellan Jr., took place here on Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. W. C. Harry, of Warm Springs, officiated at 4:30 o'clock in the presence of a group of relatives and friends of the young couple. A musical program was presented by Miss Hope Terrell, pianist, and Miss Anna Todd, soloist.

An altar was formed in the living room before the fireplace and was flanked by palms, ferns and a profusion of white flowers, including gladioli, asters, shasta daisies, fever fews and roses.

Miss Ruby Shipp, of Atlanta, was the maid of honor and only attendant for her sister. She wore a white dress with white ribbons and her flowers were sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots. John S. Shipp Jr., of Campbellton, Fla., was the best man.

The bride entered with her father, John S. Shipp Sr., who gave her away. She wore a short veil of illusion trimmed with valley lilies. Her only ornament was a sweet-heart locket. Her flowers were white roses tied with white satin ribbons.

Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip to the north Georgia mountains.

Miss Ellis Weds Stewart Taylor.

McDONOUGH, Ga., July 8.—The daughter of Miss Sara Olivia Ellis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Ellis, to Stewart Taylor, of Atlanta and McDonough, was solemnized at the First Baptist church here on July 3. Rev. Thad A. Persons, pastor, performed the marriage ceremony.

Graceful arrangements of white lilies and gladioli, interspersed with candelabra holding lighted tapers, formed the church decorations.

Mrs. Ben B. Carmichael, of McDonough, was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was of aqua sheer and she carried a formal nosegay of blue and yellow blossoms. Ushers were J. P. Price, Byrns Green, Emerson Chey and Walter Cook, all of McDonough.

The bride chose a street dress of beige sheer trimmed in lace of the same shade. She carried a prayerbook showered with orchids and valley lilies. She was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ben B. Carmichael, Edgar McDonald Taylor, of Pine Mountain Valley and McDonough, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

After a trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will occupy their new apartment in McDonough.

Miss Alice Polak Is Inspiration For Party Round

Numerous social affairs continue to be announced in compliment to Miss Alice Polak, whose marriage to Lieutenant Leonard Leroy Horner Jr., takes place July 19.

Among these additional parties is the bridge party and shower at which Mrs. Thomas Echols will be hostess Monday, July 14, at her home on Wildwood road.

Mrs. Albert V. Polak will honor her bride-elect daughter at a trolley tea Tuesday afternoon, July 15, at her home on Peachtree street, the guests to include a group of close friends.

Miss Polak and her bridesmaids will be honored Wednesday, July 16, at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. L. L. Horner Sr., mother of the groom-elect, at the Paradise room of the Henry Grady hotel. That evening Miss Virginia Polak will compliment her niece at a spinsters' dinner at her home in the Pershing Point apartments.

Friday, July 18, Lieutenant and Mrs. William I. Ray Jr. will be hosts at a cocktail party at their home on Piedmont avenue for their sister and her fiancé. This affair will precede the rehearsal for the bride couple's wedding.

Among recent parties given for Miss Polak and Lieutenant Horner was the family dinner given by the groom-elect's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Shehee.

Miss Smith Bride Of G. D. Caskey

Attended only by Mrs. R. R. Stewart, of Shilpsburg, as matron of honor, Miss Martha De Voe Smith became the beautiful bride of George D. Caskey yesterday morning at the First Methodist church in East Point. Rev. J. C. Wilson performed the ceremony at 10 o'clock in the presence of an assemblage of friends and relatives of the popular young couple.

Charles Caskey, a student of the University of Georgia, and Miss Smith, a soloist, presented a musical program. The interior of the church was further beautified by palms and ferns which formed a background for the baskets filled with white gladioli.

Earle Pugh Smith Jr., the bride's brother, and the groom's brother, Robert Caskey, escorted the guests to their places. J. W. Caskey acted as best man for his son.

The pretty young bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Earle Pugh Smith, wore a diaphanous gown of white chiffon accented by white accessories and a shoulder cluster of gardenias and delphinium.

Mrs. Smith chose for her daughter's wedding a black and white dress with a matching cluster of gladioli and roses. Mrs. Caskey, the groom's mother, wore a navy blue sheer gown accented by white accessories and a shoulder cluster of gladioli and roses.

Among out-of-town guests who witnessed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Emil G. Anderson, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Stewart, Shilpsburg; Mrs. A. C. Humphries and Charles Tate, all of Cornelia, Ga.

Williams' Homer With 2 On, 2 Out in 9th Beats Nationals, 7 to 5

THEY WERE ALL STARS—These lads played mighty big parts in the major leagues' ninth annual All-Star extravaganza at Detroit yesterday. At the left, Bobby Feller, of the Cleveland Indians, and Whitlow Wyatt, Georgia boy who is leading the National League in pitching for Brooklyn, exchange pleasantries before the game. Feller started for the Americans and gave up no runs and one hit in three innings. Wyatt faced only six men and allowed no safeties in his two innings as the National League starter. In the center, Ted Williams, talkative Boston Red Sox swatsmith, crosses the plate on his climactic, game-winning home run in the ninth frame and is congratulated by Joe DiMaggio, the "Yankee Clipper," who scored ahead of him, and another teammate. At right, the happy Williams, who leads the junior circuit in hitting, and DiMaggio, who hit safely in his 49th consecutive game, show jubilation in the clubhouse after their 7-to-5 victory.

Crackers and All-Stars Frown on 'Dead' Balls

Only Stout and Richards Favor Use of Pellets Given Trial in Game Here.

By NED ROBERTS.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
The heavy hitters of the Southern Association's All-Stars and league-leading Atlanta Crackers today moaned that they did not want any more "dead" or "semidead" balls, which were tried out in last night's annual mid-season game.

"It's like hitting a bean bag," growled Herb Crompton, catcher, whose single and double paced the Atlanta Crackers in a 5-0 win over the All-Stars.

Les Burge, Cracker first baseman battling with Lester Fleming, Nashville first sacker, for home run honors, was emphatic: "I don't like the semi-dead ball. I don't like the dead ball. I sure hope we don't use 'em."

SOME COMPLAINT.
Balls less lively than the ones being used regularly were tried in the all-star game last night, because there had been some complaints that the present regulation ball had too much bounce and was disappearing too often over fences in the small parks of Knoxville and Nashville. "Dead" balls were used for the first five innings, and "semi-dead" ones—with a little more life than the "dead"—for the remainder of the all-star game.

Two players favored the less lively balls. You guessed it: One was Al Stout, the veteran pitcher who went the route for Atlanta last night. The other was Paul Richards, Atlanta manager and catcher.

"The ball we've been using is too lively," Richards said. "The league would see better ball played if we used the semi-dead ball at least. It would cut out some of those fluke homers in bandbox parks like Nashville and Knoxville."

Most of the Crackers and All-Stars didn't know they were playing with a dead ball until a couple of innings had passed.

SOUNDED DIFFERENT.
"It sounded different, and then I began to notice the hitters weren't getting the distance," Herb Bremer, of New Orleans, who caught for the All-Stars, said.

Fleming, the league's leading hitter, also disapproved: "I hit one that should have gone somewhere and it just popped up."

Charlie Brewster, Atlanta shortstop, who hit a towering triple in the eighth, agreed.

"I really socked that thing," Brewster said, "and at that I thought that left fielder was going to get it. You got to hit it squarely to get any range at all."

Bill Jackson, Ed Lukon, and Marshall Mauldin, Knoxville's All-Star contingent, voted thumbs down. "It takes the spirit and pep out of the game," Jackson said.

"Twenty years I've been pitching," Stout said, "and last night's the first time I got an even break against hitters. That semi-dead ball would just make it fair all around."

Major Trammell Scott, league president, indicated no decision on the deadened ball would be made until officials had studied the reaction of players, sport writers and fans.

Burgess, Smokies, Traded for Stein
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 8.—(P)—Manager Freddie Lindstrom continued today to shake up the Knoxville Smokies hurling corps, getting rid of three men and acquiring two.

Charlie Burgess, a lefthander who failed to win a game but dropped three decisions while working in 20 games, was traded to Savannah in the South Atlantic League for Pete Stein in a straight deal.

To make room for Jinx Poindexter, purchased from Atlanta, Lindstrom sold Woody Johnson, winner of five and loser of eight, to Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Smith Takes Flag Tourney Here
Mrs. Sidney Smith took the first division prize in the Atlanta Women's Golf Association flag tournament at Capital City yesterday by going to the 19th green. Mrs. Claude Swinney was second in that division.

Miss Jean Fraser won the second division, also getting to the 19th green. Mrs. A. J. Kaiser was second.

Snead's Second 69 Wins Medal In PGA Meet

Harrison Stroke Behind; Par Takes Beating at Cherry Hills.

CHERRY HILLS CLUB, DENVER, July 8.—(UP)—A second par-punishing 69 today brought Slammin' Sam Snead the diamond-studded trophy as low qualifier for match play rounds of the 24th Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Par took a beating as the nation's top pros toured this mountain-shadowed 6,888-yard course in almost perfect golf weather. But it was Snead who showed the way with a bagful of amazing shots in the two-day, 36-hole stretch.

A stroke back at Snead at 139 was E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the gangling Chicagoan, who was the coldest at the 18-hole mark. Jimmy Demaret, of Noroton, Conn., Henry Ransom, of Fort Worth, Texas, and George Fazio, of Philadelphia, had 140's.

TRIPLE PUTTS.
Snead shattered par for the two rounds by four strokes, although he had three triple-putt greens and on three others missed putts of less than five feet.

Slammin' Sam, one of the game's greatest drivers, was long off the tee as usual, but it was uncanny iron play which gave him the big Alex Smith memorial trophy for the year 1941. Again and again he snapped irons, long and short, to within two and three feet of the pin.

He had only three rounds in the 60's yesterday, but today, with the greens softer after an all-night sprinkling, the birdies came easier. There were 12 scores better than 70.

Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, and William Heinlein, little known pro from Noblesville, Ind., cut four strokes from par with sizzling 67's, best rounds of the day. Their 36-hole scores totaled 142 and 143, respectively.

CULDAHL HAS 69.
Ralph Guldahl, who won the National Open on Cherry Hills just three years ago and who says "this is my course," tied a 69 to a first-round 72 to join Jack Ryan, of Louisville, Ky., and Herman Keiser, of Akron, Ohio, at 141.

Vic Ghezzi, the bronzed Deal (N. J.) pro, and Demaret had 68's. Ghezzi's round, with his 74 yesterday put him at 142. Demaret was two strokes better for the two rounds.

Ben Hogan, the betting favorite, put together rounds of 71 and 69, the latter including a brilliant 32 coming home—the best "in" nine thus far.

Harry Bassler, whose 68 gave him a tie for the lead yesterday, slipped to 73 today.

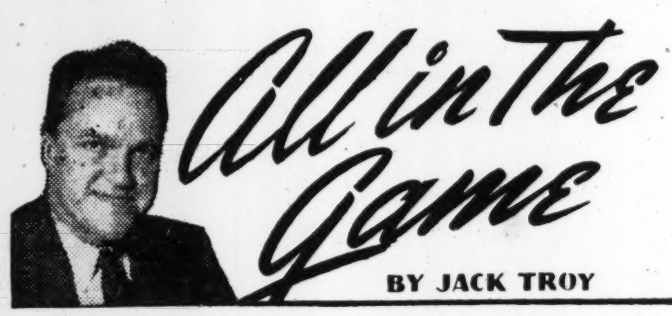

Craig Wood, the winner of the open and the Augusta Masters' tournaments, came back with a sub-par 69 today after an opening 76.

Last year's P. G. A. medalist at 142, Dick Metz, of Oak Park, Ill., was grouped at 146 with half a dozen others.

Fete Set Tonight For Publix Team
The Atlanta Public Links team which will represent the city in the national tourney at Spokane, Wash., next week, will be entertained at a steak supper tonight at County Commissioner Troy Chastain's home. Sports writers also will be guests at the party.

Qualifiers for the team were Luke Barnes, Charlie Barnes, Fred Owens and Dave Mitchell, former national champ.

PARKER WINS.
LOUST VALLEY, N. Y., July 8.—(UP)—Frankie Parker, of Altadena, Cal., added the Eastern clay court crown to his National clay court championship today on the composition surfaces of the Piping Rock Club with a crushing 6-2, 6-2, 6-0 victory over Gene Mako, of Los Angeles.

Only One As far as Pants Rowland is concerned, there's only one Cobb and there'll never be another. The astute Cub scout and Ted McGrew, Brooklyn ivory hunter, were guests of the Southern League baseball writers and naturally a question of great players came up.

Rowland said McGrew might playfully remark that Brooklyn has another Cobb or two in Pee Wee Reese and Pete Reiser, but they really know better.

"There'll never be another Cobb. There was the greatest of the great. He might not have had the greatest arm and there might have been better fielders. But for spirit and all-round performance, Cobb was tops."

McGrew readily agreed that baseball probably never will see Cobb's equal as a base runner.

"He was the smartest of them all, but I still say this Reiser will bear watching."

"He may bear watching, but he'll never be a Cobb, and we're not going to kid each other about that," Pants Rowland declared.

Arms Are Truer The reason why managers prefer to have right-handed throwers in center field was explained by the scouts.

Rowland pointed out, as McGrew assented, that it's because the right-handers are more accurate throwers. Their throws have a better carry, too. In most cases a left-handed throw sails.

In the major leagues, they pointed out, the best outfielder usually plays in right field. That's to keep runners from going from first to third on singles.

He'll Aid Smokies Jennings (Jinx) Poindexter, the eccentric southpaw, should aid the Knoxville Smokies cause. In selling Jinx to the Smokies the Crackers took a chance on him changing the Smokies' luck against Atlanta.

To date the Smokies have won only a couple of games from the league leaders. And mostly it's been their pitching that has beaten them.

Poindexter won 11 and lost 7 for Atlanta last season, but pitched only five complete games. In a Shagnessy play-off game against Nashville, Poindexter fanned 15 and had a stretch of eight in a row.

This season Poindexter has a record of nine wins and five losses and has allowed 116 hits in 105 innings. He'll certainly help the Smokies and may make it tough on his old teammates.

One To Go Sale of Poindexter still leaves one pitcher to come off the list when Floyd Strome returns to active duty. Strome is recovering from an operation for a chipped ankle bone.

Speculation naturally concerns two of the youngsters, Rene Cortes and Ed Nowak. The latter, except for his last start, has been quite effective.

Cortes has everything except control at this time. When he gets control he'll be pretty tough to beat. Bob Chipman waged a successful fight against undulant fever and won the left-hander's berth on the pitching staff.

Great Comeback They were saying old Allyn Stout had lost his stuff and probably would be the Cracker pitcher to go.

But Stout showed major league stuff against the All-Stars and definitely has left the Cracker doghouse. Stout amazed scouts with the amount of stuff and wonderful control he exhibited against a combination of the league's best.

Two of the five hits were bloopers. And the only two times All-Stars reached third, Stout was superb in the pinch. He'll be highly valuable in the stretch with such performances as Monday's.

Terry Predicts Brooklyn Club Will Cop Flag

'Wyatt, Casey and Highe Should Pull Dodgers Through.'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 8.—(P)—Those not-so-daffy Brooklyn Dodgers will win the National League flag race, Manager Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, predicted today.

Here for a three-day vacation as a result of today's All-Star game, "Memphis Bill" declared:

"If that strong-arm trio of mound aces, Whitlow Wyatt, Kirby Higbe and Hugh Casey, continue at top form it appears the Dodgers will march in easily."

At the same time Terry exuded happiness over the way his third-place Giants are bowling over National League opposition. Their surprising invasion of the first division Terry attributed partly to the comeback play of Shortstop Dick Bartell.

The peppery olderster, the Giant boss chuckled proudly, "is the Bartell of 1937, making sensational plays and belting the ball for extra bases."

Terry described Giant Pitcher Bob Carpenter, big right-hander up from Knoxville, of the Southern Association, "the prize rookie of 1941." Carpenter has five wins and one loss for the season.

11 Marks Fall With Vaughan

DETROIT, July 8.—(P)—Eleven all-star records were set in today's classic at Briggs stadium, with Arky Vaughan, shortstop of the Nationals, figuring in five of them.

The records:

Most Runs Batted In for One Game—Ted Williams, Americans, and Vaughan, Nationals, four each.

Most Home Runs in One Game—Vaughan, two.

Homer Consecutive Innings and Times at Bat—Vaughan, in seventh (off Sid Hudson) and in eighth (off Edgar Smith).

Most Consecutive Hits—Vaughan, three (single in fifth and homers in seventh and eighth).

Most Errors by an Outfielder in One Game—Pete Reiser, Nationals, two.

Most Outfield Errors in One Game—Four, Nationals, two (both by Reiser), and Americans, two (Williams and Jeff Heath).

Most Errors Both Teams One Game—Five (Americans, three; Nationals, two).

Most All-Star Games Played—Nell Ott, Joe Medwick and Billy Herman, all of Nationals, eight each.

Most Games Won on Home Diamond—Five, by Americans League.

Total All-Star Hits—Billy Herman, Nationals, 11 in eight games.

National League Falls; Vaughan Hits 2 Homers

Feller and Wyatt Pitch Well; Joe DiMaggio Connects for Double.

DETROIT, July 8.—(UP)—Ted Williams, of the Boston Red Sox, won a story-book victory for the American League today when he hit a homer with two out in the last half of the ninth and sent the National League down to a 7-5 defeat in the ninth annual All-Star game.

With two out and two on base, Williams blasted a game-breaking home run off the top of the right field pavilion, one of the longest ever hit in Briggs Stadium, to lengthen the American League's victory margin in the All-Star series to six to three.

A crowd of 54,674, third largest in All-Star history, gave the 22-year-old Boston outfielder a thunderous ovation as he jogged around the bases and his jubilant teammates escorted him to the dressing room.

VAUGHAN ECLIPSED.
With one mighty sweep of his bat, Williams snatched the laurel wreath from the brow of Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh shortstop. Vaughan had clubbed the National League into what seemed an insurmountable lead when he rifled two homers into the stands, each time with a man on base, putting the National League ahead, 5 to 3, going into the final inning.

The homer by Williams, his second hit of the game, came off Pitcher Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs, who was charged with the defeat. Passeau was the fourth right-hander sent to the mound by Manager Bill McKenney, leader of the National League team which shut out the Americans, 4 to 0, at St. Louis last year.

The pitch which Williams belted against the top of the right field pavilion was a waist-high slider. Last summer in a regular league game Williams, who has a 4.05 average in regular league play, hit a ball over the right field pavilion.

The American League team moved into the last half of the ninth inning, trailing, 5 to 3, by virtue of Shortstop Arky Vaughan's two home runs into the right field stands. Until then McKenney's team held the upper hand in hitting and pitching.

BASES JAMMED.
Frank Hayes of the Athletics popped to Billy Herman to open the ninth. Cleveland's Ken Keltner, batting for the winning pitcher, Edgar Smith of the White Sox, singled through short. New York's Joe Gordon singled to right and Travis walked, filling the bases.

Then Joe DiMaggio, whose hit on his previous time at bat hitting his consecutive game hitting streak to 49, hit a grounder—a perfect double play ball to Eddie Miller, who threw to Herman at second base, forcing Travis. Herman's throw to first pulled Frank McCormick off the bag and Di-

Men who know bourbon know what it takes to achieve the delicious smoothness, extra richness, extra taste of our Old Jordan Straight Bourbon Whisky. We stick to the old methods that take more time, more care—the "slow" way we started 100 years ago. We still buy premium grains. Use more of them to a gallon. Simmer our mash slowly. But we're in no hurry. That's how we get such extra smoothness, extra richness, extra taste. That's why Old Jordan—straight whiskey every drop—is the best in the "bourbon country." Yes, Old Jordan costs more to make, but not to drink! So treat yourself to the extra pleasure of Old Jordan.

G. Dahlbender Licks Gaillard At Druid Hills

Two Genes Play Exciting Match in Quarter-Final Round.

By AL SHARP.

Gene Dahlbender knocked his second shot dead to the pin on the first extra hole yesterday at Druid Hills to win an exciting match from Gene Gaillard in the club championship.

Dahlbender's birdie for the 1-up victory in the quarter-finals eliminated one of the finest matches played around here in recent tournaments. They were one under par for 18 holes.

Gaillard made a great shot under pressure on the 18th to keep the match alive and then Dahlbender came back with his grand shot to seal the victory.

Goose Gaillard was one down coming to the 18th green. Dahlbender was near the edge after two long shots. The Goose was about 100 feet from the pin. He had to have that hole. So Gaillard pitched dead to the stick. Dahlbender was about four feet away and missed his birdie. The Goose sank his.

On the first hole, Gaillard pushed his drive a bit. Dahlbender cracked one of his 275-yard specials down the middle. Gaillard made a good second shot to the green's edge. But Dahlbender gave him no chance. He dropped that second shot in "gimmie" territory.

Dahlbender will meet the long-driving Charlie Brumby in the semi-finals while two upset artists square off in the other match. They are M. K. Pentecost, winner over Hubert Suratt, 1 up on the 18th, and Fred Mason, who trimmed Harold Cason, 2 and 1, in a battle of the youngsters.

FLORENCE CAMP.

Women in Sports

Florence Camp Mixes Business and School With Good Grade of Tennis in Busy Program.

By CAROLYN MATTHEWS.

Today's business girl—if she is wise—is as active on the tennis court as she is in the office. Recreation and relaxation are as important to her as being the efficient secretary. They are vital factors toward making her the efficient secretary.

Take, for instance, Florence Camp, who lives in College Park. Florence is the valued secretary to a credit manager in one of Atlanta's department stores. She has a busy time. And Miss Camp's day doesn't end when she leaves the office. Being ambitious, she goes to Georgia Evening School (where she's a sophomore) to earn a degree in commerce.

At the school, Florence teaches gym classes on appointed days. Being a sociably well-liked person, she also belongs to a local sorority, a club, and a national sorority. Besides this, she is a member of the College Park Junior Woman's Club and participates in all their democratic, religious, or social undertakings. Then she even squeezes in enough time for her friends, her flower gardening, and her dog.

You would think that anyone so occupied couldn't possibly find time for anything else, but at least every weekend, Florence, an attractive blonde and very poised, concentrates on tennis. She likes to play every spare afternoon and wants the family backing her up on special occasions. Emphatically, tennis is her favorite activity and swimming is next.

She's been on the Evening College's tennis team for the past two years, the team winning this year all games except one home engagement. She won the girls' tournaments, both in the fall and spring.

Promisingly enough, Miss Camp began tournament playing in 1938, when she was presented a trophy for being the "Best Dub in Atlanta."

She has played in all the local and state contests for the past three years and was a runner-up in the state mixed doubles last year. Authorities describe her game as unorthodox but very effective.

Orville Brown Faces Wycoff Mat Show Set Tonight at Tennis Club

Strange sounds will go out into the night from the Northside Tennis Club courts on Juniper street this evening.

Abie Simon has leased the courts, improved seating arrangements, installed a ring and tonight will stage an outdoor heavy-weight card at 8:30.

It is an attractive program, mainly because Orville Brown, perhaps the most popular wrestler to appear in Atlanta, will be the leading principal. The handsome Missourian, long an outstanding contender, will return here after two years' absence to meet clever Lee Wycoff in the 90-minute feature.

Marvin Jones, the Texan with the educated legs, meets Pat Newman in the hour-limit semi-final.

Herbie Freeman and Harry Kent will be opponents in the first event.

Northside courts are located on Juniper street between North avenue and Ponce de Leon.

Burge Blasts 27th Home Run In Last Inning

Lochbaum and Jurisch Engage in Hot Hurling Duel Until Ninth.

By JACK TROY.

Constitution Sports Editor.

John Beazley, Branch Rickey's choice for stardom, blanketed the Crackers for five innings without a hit and then collapsed as the Crackers staged a winning five-run rally to break even on last night's double-header. New Orleans won the first game, 4 to 3, in 11 innings. The Crackers won the second, 5 to 3, in six innings. The game was called in order to allow the visitors to catch a train.

Pep Rambert, making his debut as a Cracker, was successful. He started his own game-winning rally with an infield hit in the sixth. But Maillho grounded to Bolling and Bolling's throw to second hit Rambert in the back. Ryan forced Rambert at third. There were two outs and the Crackers hadn't scored.

BURGE COMES THROUGH

Big Lester Burge, who socked his 27th home run of the season in the first game, came through with a single, scoring Maillho. Marshall also singled, sending Ryan home. Beazley was replaced by Warchol, who walked Glock. Coffman came into the game for Warchol in the sixth inning.

Lochbaum pitched the ninth, intentionally. Burge romped home with the tying run on Coffman's wild pitch.

And the hero of the game was Pinch-Hitter John Gerlach, whose sharp single to left scored Marshall with the winning run. Rambert came up for the second time in the inning and got another hit, which drove in Glock. The game was called after Bates forced Rambert.

The even break enabled Atlanta to retain its seven-game lead over the Cardinals.

In the first game, Alvin Jurisch failed to last, and Coffman, who relieved in the ninth, was the winning pitcher. An 11th-inning Cracker rally fell short.

LOCHBAUM RETIRES.

Emile Lochbaum retired for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, and Ed Nowak finished to become the losing pitcher. It was his second straight defeat.

The Crackers, sensational victors over the All-Stars the night before, could get only seven hits in the first game, but at that out hit the Pelicans, who had six.

But they sent a large ladies' night crowd home happy when they staged an old-time Cracker finish in the nightcap. The club goes on the road for several days following last night's games. The first port of call is Birmingham. They play the Barons tonight. Ed Heusser or Bob Chipman will pitch.

FIRST GAME.

Winsett was a pain to Lochbaum. He led off the second inning with a home run and in the sixth he tripled to drive in Richards, who had singled.

Jurisch held the Crackers scoreless until the sixth, when Maillho drove a triple to right and scored on Burge's outfield fly.

Successive doubles by Burge and Marshall drove Jurisch to cover and deadlocked the game in the ninth. The Crackers had the winning run on second base, but Richards fanned and Gerlach forced Glock, sending the game into extra innings. Marshall's double had driven Jurisch to the showers, the veteran Dick Coffman replacing him.

In the 11th, B. Richards singled and Winsett walked. Then, with two away, Thompson singled to left, scoring both runners and breaking the tie.

Burge's 11th-inning homer went for nothing for Marshall grounded out and Glock, who singled, was swept off the sacks as Manager Richards hit into a game-ending double play.

SECOND GAME.

Winsett was doubled in the second game, too. He doubled to score Richards, who walked, in the first inning.

Trouble piled up for Rambert in the third. Beazley walked and got a chance, but Burge threw wild to second.

Ankenman singled to left. Bolling rolled to Rambert, who had a chance for a double play, but Ryan intercepted the ball in front of the base. Beazley got on, but Richards' fielders' choice. The bases were loaded again when Rambert walked Winsett. Triplett fled to center and Ankenman raced home after the catch.

Ganzel To Manage Jacksonville Nine

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 8.—(P)—Foster Pierre Ganzel will take over management of the Jacksonville entry to the South Atlantic League here Thursday. Business Manager Crowther M. Boyd said today.

Bobby Riggs Beats McNeill for Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 8.—(P)—Bobby Riggs, of Chicago and Clinton, S. C., won his second southern tennis championship today by beating National Champion Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, 7-5, in the fifth and deciding set of the delayed finals.

Riggs and McNeill each had won two sets and were deadlocked at four-all in the fifth set yesterday when rain stopped play and they agreed to replay the final set today.

By beating McNeill, 5-7, 7-5, 9-7, 1-6, 7-5, Riggs, the "mechanical man" of the courts, scored his 11th triumph in 15 matches with the national champion.

American Wins All-Star Battle

Maggio was safe, Keltner scoring and Gordon taking third.

Then Williams lashed his home run, scoring DiMaggio and Gordon ahead of him.

The National League scored its runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, after the American League had taken a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning.

SLAUGHTER SINGLES.

Enos Slaughter, of the Cardinals, started the Nationals' seventh with a single off Washington's young Sid Hudson, who had followed Bob Feller, of the Indians, and Thornton Lee, White Sox southpaw, to the mound.

Slaughter took second when Williams fumbled the ball. Vaughan then rifled a 315-foot home run to right-field stands, scoring Slaughter and giving the Nationals a 3-2 advantage.

Billy Herman then doubled along the left-field foul line. Al Lopez advanced Herman to third with a well-placed bunt. Stanley Pease was called out on strikes. The Cardinals' Johnny Lush doubled again the right-field wall. Slaughter also fanned.

Vaughan then sent his second home run into the right-field stands, 370 feet away.

Billy Herman was safe on first when Smith failed to touch the base on Gordon's throw. Harry Danning popped to Gordon, ending the two-run drive.

BROTHER COMBINATION.

The DiMaggios, Joe and Dominic, accounted for the American League's third run in the eighth inning. Joe, first up, doubled to left, Williams struck out, but Dominic singled to right-center, scoring Joe. Boudreau singled to center, Reiser overran the ball and the Cleveland infielder went to second. DiMaggio taking third.

But Boston's husky first baseman, Jimmy Fox, struck out, stranding two men on base.

The American League team out-hit its rivals, 11 to 10. There were five errors during the game—three by the American League, a record for the All-Star series. Never before have three home runs been hit in one game.

The previous record was two. Also, no other player has hit two home runs in a single All-Star game as Vaughan did today.

Cleveland's Bob Feller and Brooklyn's Whit Wyatt started on the mound. The former working three innings; the latter two. Feller allowed only one hit, a single by Cincinnati's Linus Frey, and struck out four men.

Wyatt held the American League batters, and faced only six men. He walked Ted Williams but the next hitter, Jeff Eath, hit into a double play.

Cincinnati's Paul Derringer followed Wyatt. He worked two innings, allowing two hits and one run. The second American League pitcher was Lefty Thornton Lee. He also worked three innings and was nicked for four hits.

Another Cincinnati pitcher, Bucky Walters, replaced Derringer. He also hurled two innings, allowing three blows. National League batters got to Hudson for three hits in the seventh inning. Smith worked the last two innings for the American League, permitting three hits. Passeau, the last National League pitcher, was clubbed for six hits, including Williams' home run in the 7-5 innings he worked.

Whirlaway To Run In Warm-Up Race

CHICAGO, July 8.—(P)—Warren Wright's Whirlaway, winner of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, will tune up for the $50,000 Arlington Classic July 26, when he goes next Tuesday in the $5,000 Classic trial, Trainer Ben Jones said today.

Jinx Poindexter Sold to Smokies

Jennings (Jinx) Poindexter, who won nine and lost five games for Atlanta this season, has been sold to Knoxville for cash, Earl Mann, Cracker president, announced yesterday.

Poindexter has been on the injured and suspended list for several days with a bad knee. He came to Atlanta two years ago from the Philadelphia National League club.

Ex-Princeton Coach, Martin Bergen, Dies

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—(P)—Martin V. Bergen, 69, once famous baseball and football player and coach at Princeton University, died today in his apartment at the Racquet Club.

The attorney was a descendant of one of the oldest families of New Jersey.

Upon graduation from Princeton in 1894, Bergen was football coach there for a time and later coached at other institutions.
